Tidal Waves Kill At Least 26 In Hawaii

Quake-Born Deluge Slams Into Port City

Dozens Missing As Hilo Shattered By Tons Of Water

HONOLULU (AP) — Four tidal waves, spawned in the vast Pacific by Chile's destructive earthquakes, shattered downtown Hilo Monday.

Twenty-six persons were reported killed and police said dozens were missing in Hawaii's second largest city.

Damage in the wrecked waterfront and business sections was expected to exceed 25 million dollars in the port city of 26,000 on the Island of Hawaii.

Hospitals reported 51 injured.

Other islands in the Hawaiian chain were buffeted by the quake-born seismic sea waves, but damage was slight compared to the toll in Hilo.

All the island state's population was alerted by siren warnings more than three hours before the first wave hit at 12:55 a.m. HST (5:25 a.m. EST).

Thousands Flee

The warning system, installed after a disastrous 1946 seismic wave killed 159 persons in Hilo and other Hawaii areas, warned thousands to move out of low lying areas.

These included hundreds of guests in Waikiki Beach hotels in Honolulu. Water surged through the main floors of the plush Waikiki hotels and briefly flooded Kalakaua avenue, the Honolulu resort district's main street.

The Coast Guard rescued six persons from a cabin cruiser that broke up on the rocky coast of Kauai Island, northernmost in the island chain.

The massive wave force, generated by continuing earthquake shocks in Chile which killed an officially counted 252 in that South American country, ranged across the world's largest ocean from New Zealand to the California coast.

Emergency Declared

William F. Quinn, Hawaii's governor, declared a state of emergency and flew from Honolulu to Hilo to take personal charge in the disaster area.

Screams for help rose from demolished waterfront hotels in Hilo.

The biggest of the four waves slamming into Hilo crested at 12 to 15 feet above the harbor's normal tide mark.

This wave, third in the series and hitting at 1:05 a.m. HST (6:05 a.m. EST) smashed over the waterfront. It knocked down almost every building in the Waikea district.

The wave's tons of water crushed every structure on the seaward side of Kamehameha avenue, Hilo's main street One building was tossed into the middle of the street, blocking it off.

Peasants Get Land

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq began distributing former royal family lands to peasants Monday

Radio Baghdad said deeds on 17,000 acres were distributed to 1,761 persons who will form 10 model villages.

The royal family—wiped out in the 1958 revolution—owned 56,000 acres. The radio said the rest of the royal land will be distributed soon.

375 Holiday Auto Deaths Forecast

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Safety Council predicted Monday that 375 persons would be killed on the nation's highways this Memorial Day weekend and a possible 13,000 others injured.

"It is tragically ironic to honor the dead by killing and injuring the living," a council spokesman said.

The council said it expected just about every one of the nation's 73 million autos to be driven at least some time during the Memorial Day holiday.

The students, growing more aggressive in their outbursts, hurled bricks and stones into the ranks of an estimated 3,000 officers outside Kishi's barricaded official residence.

Club-wielding officers broke up the crowd 40 minutes later. Authorities said 88 police were injured, 14 seriously, and about 40 students were hurt.

Many of the students later joined various left-wing groups in snake dance demonstrations through the streets. Chanting anti-government slogans and singing the Communist Internationale, the youths were demanding dissolution of Parliament and the immediate resignation of Kishi and his pro-West Cabinet.

Chilean Quake Toll Increased By Avalanche

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A death-dealing avalanche touched off on a live volcano slope by new earth convulsions added Monday to Chile's prolonged seize of quake and tidal wave woes. The nine reported killed by the avalanche ran Chile's official death toll over the weekend to 308.

The Interior Ministry said the Osorno volcano itself did not erupt but that tons of rocks were shaken loose from its peak, roaring down on the valley.

The volcano rears up on the east side of Lake Llanquihue, 600 miles south of Santiago and a few miles from Puerto Montt, where 30 residents were killed Sunday in a giant tidal wave.

Besides the dead in the series of disasters, 130 were missing and 1,600 injured. Thousands were homeless.

Hardest hit Sunday along with Puerto Montt were the towns of Ancud and Valdivia.

The Interior Ministry told reporters it would no longer announce total casualty figures in order not to alarm the people. This move indicated the actual toll might be much greater than what has been announced.

The damage in wrecked buildings, disrupted roads and other losses throughout nine central and southern provinces totaled millions of dollars.

Tidal waves which battered the Chilean coast early Sunday night, sweeping away 130 persons to probable death at sea, had spread thousands of miles into the Pacific. Awesome breakers and freak currents pounded the shores of such distant lands as New Zealand, Hawaii and California.

While aid sped to Chile from her Latin-American neighbors and U.S. bases in the Panama Canal Zone, seismograph recording instruments picked up the continuing earth shocks through the night.

Ike's Summit Report Set Tomorrow

President Calls Unusual Meeting Of NSC For Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has set Wednesday night as the time for his report to the people on the collapse of the summit conference.

In apparent preparation Monday for a major effort, he called an unusual meeting of the National Security Council, his top level strategy board, for Tuesday.

He also kept his office calendar otherwise free of appointments and passed up the usual Wednesday news conference.

Ike Confers With Herter

Eisenhower is expected to give his reasons for the failure of the big power meeting at Paris, where he was denounced by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and discuss what may lie ahead in the cold war.

Eisenhower spent part of Monday on the Wednesday night report, which will be carried over radio and TV networks.

He conferred with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and with White House aides who help draft his speeches.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty was asked whether the calling of the Security Council meeting for Tuesday had anything to do with Eisenhower's plans to report on the summit fiasco. He replied: "While I never report on NSC discussions, I would assume that would at least be discussed."

Address Set For 8 DST

The Security Council, which usually meets on Thursday mornings, is composed of the President, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Herter, Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Director Leo A. Hoegh of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

The White House said Eisenhower will speak for 30 minutes Wednesday night beginning at 8 o'clock Eastern Daylight Time. The radio networks and the ABC and CBS television networks will carry the address at the time. NBC-TV will repeat it at 10 p.m. EDT.

Reds Promise Statement On Nine Captives

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet and East German sources promised Monday there will be a statement on the nine Americans — one a woman — whose Copenhagen-Hamburg flight Friday landed them in Soviet captivity.

The statement may come Tuesday. The Communist informants declined to say exactly when or even who would make it. There was no hint what bearing the statement might have on the captives' future.

The landing of a U.S. Air Force C47 transport in Communist East Germany put the Americans in Soviet hands. The Soviets announced the plane was forced down by the Soviet military.

The United States is still awaiting a reply from Col. Gen. I. I. Yakubovsky, commander of Soviet forces in East Germany, to a request Saturday from Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, U.S. Army commander in Europe, for immediate release of the Americans and the plane.

Four Crewmen Killed In Crash Of New Jetliner

ATLANTA (AP) — A Convair 880, the nation's newest jet airliner, crashed and burned on takeoff Monday, killing the four crewmen who were taking it up on a training flight.

No one else was aboard the four-million-dollar gleaming white pride of Delta Air Lines' fleet.

Delta officials identified the victims as Capt. James H. Logino, 41, College Park, Ga.; Capt. H. L. Laube, 45, College Park; 1st Officer Bryan Bolt, Atlanta, and Capt. W. F. Williams, 50, Miami.

C. E. Woolman, president of Delta, said there was no immediate explanation for the accident. The Civil Aeronautics Board is investigating.

Delta put the 600 m.p.h. plane into service only a week ago on routes between New York and Atlanta, New York and New Orleans and New York and Houston.

Ike Move Delays Switcher Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower acted Monday to head off a threatened strike by the Switchmen's Union against 18 railroads in the West and Midwest.

The President issued an order under the Railway Labor Act creating an emergency board to study the dispute. His action delayed any strike for 60 days.

Involved are 18 roads represented by the Western Carriers' Conference Committee who have been involved in a contract dispute with the Switchmen's Union of North America.

The dispute involves wages and changes in the so-called work rules which govern the activity of the employes.

The union had proposed wage increases and certain rules changes. The railroads had countered with proposed wage decreases and different changes in the rules. The union conducted a vote in which its members elected to strike.

Senators Engage In Shouting Match Over Paris Debacle

Scott Denies Calling Kennedy Appeaser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) strode into the Senate Monday night and told a Republican critic: "I do not have to purge myself of the suspicion of being an appeaser."

Kennedy, pacesetting candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, arrived in the chamber several hours after the Senate's country ahead of politics truce exploded in bitter partisan charge and countercharge.

During the hot word fight, Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) had declared Kennedy and Adlai E. Stevenson should be summoned before congressional investigators "to relieve themselves of the gross suspicion of appeasement" growing out of their criticisms of Eisenhower administration policies leading up to the summit collapse last week.

When Kennedy arrived he told Scott:

"I do not have to purge myself of the suspicion of being an appeaser. I do not advocate a policy that would weaken the United States.

"I'm sure the senator (Scott) can't believe I'm an appeaser."

Scott denied calling Kennedy an appeaser.

"I am willing to abide by the senator's statement," Scott said. "I hope that will satisfy the sensitivity of the senator."

Kennedy replied that this was a "somewhat grudging" admission.

The Massachusetts senator contended Scott had taken out of context a statement Kennedy made in a campaign speech in Portland, Ore.

Kennedy said that when he was asked by a student what he would have done if he had been in Eisenhower's place at Paris, he replied that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had placed two conditions on his willingness to hold the conference.

One of these was that Eisenhower apologize for the plane incident, Kennedy said. He recalled he told his audience he thought "this might have been possible to do."

But Kennedy said he added in almost the same sentence that if Khrushchev had merely asked the President to express regret "that would have been a more reasonable term."

Kennedy declared Scott was unfair in attacking him and Stevenson for statements made about the summit conference blowup.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who had touched off the debate earlier, asked if Kennedy thought he had been unfair to him.

"The senator from Illinois did not treat me unfairly," Kennedy replied crisply. "The senator from Pennsylvania did."

Other Democrats warned the Republicans they shouldn't try to picture the summit collapse as a great victory.

Amid the roaring oratory — which may well be repeated in the election campaigns ahead —there were echoes of soft-on-communism charges that figured prominently in the past two presidential battles.

Some Republicans objected to impending Senate investigations of the U2 spy plane incident and other factors that led to the breakdown of the summit talks a week ago. Key Democrats promised a nonpolitical inquiry, and they got some GOP support.

In the wake of the nearly three-hour debate, Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) announced he expects Secretary of State Christian A. Herter to appear before

Lodge Blasts Russ Charge As Fallacious

Gromyko Demands That U.N. Condemn U.S. As Aggressor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States accused the Soviet Union Monday night of maintaining a vast spy network while trying to curb U.S. efforts to guard against surprise Communist attack.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made the charge in the U.N. Security Council.

He was replying to a demand from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that the United States be condemned as an aggressor for aerial spying on Soviet territory. Gromyko warned that such action ran the risk of kindling the flames of World War III.

Unless immediate action is taken by the U.N., Gromyko asserted, "grave consequences" could result.

Lodge said that the Soviets have thousands of spies everywhere, and that since the death of Stalin 360 actually had been convicted in the free world.

"If it ever should be accepted that the Soviet Union can maintain a double standard while they have thousands of spies everywhere. . . then the free world would surely be in peculiar danger," Lodge asserted.

Galleries Jammed

He spoke for only 15 minutes in comparison to an hour-long speech by Gromyko. The galleries in the Council chamber were jammed with both diplomats and ordinary spectators.

Gromyko denounced President Eisenhower and accused the United States of perfidy comparable to that of Japanese diplomats in Washington just prior to the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

He called on the Council not only to condemn the United States as an aggressor for aerial spying, but also to request that the United States put an end to such flights.

But Lodge denied that the United States had commied any aggressive acts "against the Soviet Union or any other country, either through its Air Force or through any other agency of the U.S. government."

Lodge named a dozen spies he said were arrested in the United States since the death of Stalin.

He said the United States in addition to naming spies could also bring up the presence of a Soviet vessel off Long Island's Montauk Point a few weeks ago that was "deliberately interfering with operations of the U.S. Navy."

U.S. Bids For Open Skies Pact

He made these additional points:

1. The United States has suspended spy flights similar to the U2 spy plane downed over the Soviet Union last May 1 and the free world could only speculate why the Soviet Union sought to bring up the matter in the United Nations.

2. The United States is prepared to negotiate an open skies treaty with the Soviet Union that would obviate forever any need for attempts at aerial espionage by any nation.

"At an appropriate time we intend to make proposals to get at the heart of the matter and we hope our proposals will prove constructive," he added.

He denied the Soviet charges as fallacious and said the United States was glad of the chance to air the issues involved in the Council.

Diplomats said there was virtually no chance of the Soviet Union getting a resolution con-

Scores Dead And Missing In Japanese Tidal Waves

TOKYO (AP) — Tidal waves loosed by Chile's earthquakes smashed into sleeping Japan at dawn Tuesday, causing death and destruction.

The Japan Broadcasting Corp. reported 28 persons were dead, 34 injured and 62 missing after a series of waves as high as 20 feet flooded villages along the Pacific coast of Honshu and Hokkaido islands.

Police, who had no advance warning of the tidal disturbance, confirmed reports of 6 dead, 6 missing and 21 injured.

Japan Broadcasting Corp. said 29,000 houses were flooded, 1,600 of them damaged or washed away and 415 fishing boats torn from their moorings. The first series of waves struck Hokkaido, in the north.

Wave Hits Calif. Town

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (AP) —A tidal wave swept into Crescent City at 12:20 p. m. Monday, pushing water for three blocks into the town.

Police reported three persons were hurt. There was no word of fatal injuries.

Crescent City is near the California-Oregon border.

Two fishing vessels were swamped and 30 others damaged. Jetties and other harbor installations were damaged.

TV Emmy Nominations Set Stage For Unusual Races

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will it be another year with Emmy for Fred Astaire? That possibility appeared Monday with the nominations for the 1959-60 TV Academy Awards.

Last year, "An Evening With Fred Astaire" danced off with nine gold statuettes in various divisions. He can't repeat that record because the Emmy categories have been pared.

But Fred's again in the running for best musical-variety performance, competing with Harry Belafonte and Dinah Shore.

"Another Evening With Fred Astaire" also drew a nomination as best variety program. It will be in a race with the Dinah Shore Show, Fabulous Fifties, Garry Moore Show and Tonight with Belafonte. In reducing the number of categories, the Academy has created the somewhat illogical competition of single specials against weekly shows.

Another unusual race is in the best series actor division. It is a three-way affair between Westerner Richard Boone (Have Gun, Will Travel), sleuth Raymond Burr (Perry Mason) and crime-buster Robert Stack (The Untouchables).

The best series actress contest demonstrates TV's reliance on standard movie names. The competitors: Donna Reed, Jane Wyatt (Father Knows Best) and Loretta Young.

The awards will be handed out on an NBC special June 20. Other major nominations follow:

Outstanding achievement in humor:

Art Carney Special—VIP; Danny Thomas Show; Father Knows Best; Jack Benny Show; Red Skelton Show.

Ethan Frome; The Moon and Sixpence; Playhouse 90; The Turn of the Screw; The Untouchables.

Outstanding achievement in news:

Outstanding achievement in public affairs and education:

Meet the Press: The Population Explosion, CBS Reports; Small World; Twentieth Century; Winter Olympics-CBS.

Outstanding achievement in children's programming:

Captain Kangaroo; Huckleberry Hound; Lassie; Quick Draw McGraw; Watch Mr. Wizard.

Outstanding achievement in music:

Bell Telephone Hour; Green Pastures; Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic; Music of Gershwin-Bell Telephone Hour; Young People's Concerts—Leonard Bernstein.

Oustanding single performance by an actor:

Long-Sought Nazi War Criminal Seized In Israel

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Adolf Eichmann, the most wanted Nazi war criminal still at large, has been captured and will stand trial in Israel, Premier David Ben-Gurion announced Monday.

Bene-Gurion charged in the Knesst (Parliament) that Eichmann and other Nazi leaders were responsible for "the extermination of six million Jews of Europe."

The Premier told the startled Knesset—which had no previous inkling the long manhunt was over —that Eichmann—now 54—had recently been seized by Israel security forces.

"Adolf Eichmann is already under arrest in Israel," Ben-Gurion said, "and will shortly be placed on trial in Israel under terms of Israel's law for the trial of Nazis and their collaborators."

The Premier gave no details of the arrest of the man who was a top aide of Heinrich Himmler, boss of the dread Nazi secret police or Gestapo.

Eichmann vanished from sight in the days when Hitler's Reich was crumbling under Allied blows. A lieutenant colonel in the SS

He was reported thereafter in several Latin-American countries, in Australia, in Switzerland and last October in Kuwait, the British protectorate in the Middle East. The British hunted for him in vain.

West Germany also wanted him. A warrant for murder had been circulated for Eichmann for years. Last year, German authorities dealing with war crimes got a report he might be in Israel and asked Israeli officials to look for him.

Du Pont-GM Stock Decision Will Be Reviewed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed Monday to review a decision which held that the Du Pont company could continue to own its three-billion-dollar share of General Motors Corp.

The decision, which was appealed by the government, was handed down by U.S. Dist. Judge Walter J. La Buy in Chicago. He held that the Du Pont Co., could retain its 63 million shares in General Motors, but would have to pass voting rights on to Du Pont stockholders.

Du Pont holdings amount to about 23 per cent of GM's outstanding stock.

The federal government, through the Justice Department antitrust division, has been trying for 11 years to compel Du Pont to divest itself of GM holdings.

Justices Tom C. Clark and John M. Harlan disqualified themselves from the case.

In other major actions Monday the court:

1. Upheld, on a 5-4 vote, a secret contempt of court procedure in which a New Yorker received a one-year jail sentence.

Justice Felix Frankfurther, who spoke for the majority, said no objection was made by Morry Levine or his attorney to the public being excluded from the court room of U.S. Dist. Judge Richard H. Levet.

Levine was punished for refusing to answer grand jury questions in an investigation dealing with motor carrier sections of the Interstate Commerce Act.

2. Agreed to pass on validity of Connecticut's birth control laws.

The laws, which prohibit the use of contraceptives and drugs and make it illegal for physicians to prescribe them, have been involved in numerous state court tests since their passage in 1879. This is the first time their constitutionality has been challenged before the Supreme Court.

Body Of Missing Boat Captain Washed Ashore

CHESAPEAKE BEACH, Md. (AP)—The body of a 52-year-old boat captain, missing since he disappeared from a motor vessel in Chesapeake Bay May 1, washed ashore Monday.

The body of Leon Webster, of Cambridge, was found at Breeze Point, about seven miles south of this Calvert County town. Dr. Hugh H. Ward, deputy medical examiner, ruled the death was caused by drowning.

Webster apparently fell from the 200-ton vessel, Betty Conway, about five miles north of Cove Point, south of Tilghman Island. The boat was en route from Baltimore to Laurel, Del., with a load of fertilizer.

Howard M. (Buck) Sherman Sr. of Cambridge, owner of the boat, reported that Webster disappeared after he left the pilot house about 11 a. m. on May 1, and went to the lower deck for a drink of water.

Webster was married and the father of nine children.

State's Plush New Yacht Ties Up At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The recently acquired Maryland yacht Sea Level has arrived in Annapolis to begin her new duties as a cruise ship for the Tidewater Fisheries Department and the state government.

Gov. Tawes and Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein took the first trip on her in Maryland waters, arriving from Norfolk with the yacht Sunday night.

It went on public view Monday at the state pier, where the plush 118-foot yacht occupies only a part of the space once taken up by the Potomac, the 165-foot former Coast Guard cutter and Presidential yacht of Franklin Roosevelt which the state acquired after World War II and recently sold.

The Sea Level, a striking royal blue and white in color, presents none of the white hulled Potomac's warship traits. Formerly used by West Indies Fruit Co. executives, she is plushly furnished from stem to stern.

On the main deck are a huge living room with elegant furnishings, a smaller dining room, kitchen and food storage facilities and an after deck for lounging. Up forward and just beneath the pilot house is a glassed-in observation lounge.

Below deck there are five staterooms with a total of 10 permanently installed bunks for sleeping. Baths adjoin the staterooms. Thick carpeting extends throughout the main living and sleeping quarters.

Capt. John Conway, who remained as skipper of the new yacht after the Potomac was sold, said the yacht handled well in rough water encountered on the trip from Florida and should be "much more economical" to operate than was the Potomac.

He said it is in good condition following repairs to a loose steering cable which caused it to go aground on a mud bank in the inland waterway after leaving Palm Beach, Fla.

The fundamental principles of the Red Cross were laid down in a conference in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1863.

Lodge Blasts

demning the United States through the council.

In an attempt to ease tension in the wake of the sharp U.S.-Soviet exchange, four of the smaller nations on the council introduced a resolution calling for early resumpton of East-West negotiations on disarmament and other big issues.

The resolution was worked out on the initiative of Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon, president of the council for May. He opened the meeting with a plea that the council take up the issues in an atmosphere of "calm, detachment, restraint and dignity." Argentina, Ecuador, and Tunisia joined Ceylon in the move.

It noted with regret that the world's hopes had been dashed for a successful summit meeting in Paris. It said it is now necessary to "make every effort to restore and strengthen international goodwill and confidence."

The resolution urged the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—the summit participants — "to resume discussions as soon as possible" and to avail themselves of the assistance of the Security Council and other appropriate U.N. organs.

After hearing Lodge and Gromyko the council adjourned until 3 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Senators Engage

his Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Friday, to discuss incidents leading up to the summit breakdown.

The match was lighted by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. He rose in the Senate to say Adlai E. Stevenson may have planted dynamite under the East-West talks by suggesting in advance a soft approach to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

As backing for his charge, Dirksen cited an interview a Paris newspaper purportedly had with Stevenson on the eve of the summit meeting — an interview in which Dirksen said Stevenson favored concessions on Berlin, among other things.

This interview has been repudiated by Stevenson, his party's presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, and a possible nominee again this year. Monday, he acknowledged talking with a French reporter, but said "What he reports me as saying have never been my views and are not my views today."

Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md) challenged the Democrats either to take impeachment action against Eisenhower for his intelligence and summit policies "or stop this ridiculous talk against the President."

Dirksen and Butler belabored Stevenson for saying in a Chicago speech last week that the Eisenhower administration — through the spy plane incident — had furnished Khrushchev a crowbar with which to wreck the summit talks.

HST Says Adlai Would Be Flop In White House

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman says he concluded in 1956 that Adlai E. Stevenson would be "ineffectual as a president" because of indecisiveness.

Truman, writing in Look magazine, said he also felt Stevenson was "uncertain of himself and remote from the people."

Stevenson, he said further, brought about a period of "confusion, drift and factionalism" in the Democratic party by not exercising party leadership after his 1952 defeat by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He also said Stevenson's 1952 campaign was not conducted on the Democratic administration record and cost the party three or four million votes.

"Thank you for employing such wonderful people"

The above words, which we value highly, are in a letter received from a young college coed. The letter goes on to say that she lost her wallet while running an errand for her family. She rushed back to the store, looked everywhere, but had no luck in finding it. Finally, sure that she would never get the wallet back, she started home feeling pretty down in the dumps.

But at almost that very minute the doorbell rang at her house and a voice said "Excuse me, I think this wallet I found belongs to someone who lives here." The voice belonged to a C & P installer, and the result was a greatly relieved young lady.

In itself this is a small thing—what any good neighbor would do. And we're glad the desire to be of help is so natural with telephone people. Whether it's a service representative taking a real interest in your problem, an operator making an extra effort, or an installer returning a lost wallet—the spirit of service is the same.

Davis To Head Separate AP West Va. Bureau

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press is establishing a separate bureau to cover West Virginia with headquarters in Charleston. General Manager Frank J. Starzel announced Monday.

Jack F. Davis news editor of the Baltimore AP bureau since January 1956, has been named chief of bureau, effective June 26.

West Virginia has been served through the Baltimore bureau in conjunction with Maryland for several years. Growth of news and Associated Press interests in the state, however, made establishment of full bureau in Charleston necessary.

Davis, 40, joined The Associated Press staff in Baltimore in November, 1947. He was transferred to New York in May, 1953, as an administrative assistant in the General Office. He returned to Baltimore three years later. Davis is married and has four children.

The effective date of his appointment in Charleston is June 26.

As chief of bureau, Davis will succeed Max Fullerton, who was appointed chief of bureau in Charleston in July, 1936. Fullerton was transferred to Baltimore in December, 1945, as chief of bureau for Maryland and West Virginia. He will continue as chief of bureau in Baltimore.

In handling West Virginia operations, Davis also will succeed Harry W. Ball, correspondent in Charleston for almost 15 years. Ball was transferred May 15 to Harrisburg as correspondent in the Pennsylvania capital bureau.

The general manager also announced the appointment of H.J. Ramey of Huntington as traffic bureau chief for West Virginia, with headquarters in Charleston. Ramey, a veteran of 36 years in AP service, formerly was traffic chief in Baltimore and Pittsburgh. He returned to West Virginia in 1935 and has operated from Charleston or Huntington since that time. Ramey will succeed T. Stanley Smith of Baltimore, traffic bureau chief for the two states since 1953. Smith continues as traffic chief in Baltimore.

Intruder Forces Physician's Son To Give Him Dope

BALTIMORE (AP) — The son of a doctor told police a stranger came into his father's office and forced the youth to give him some shots of dope.

Thomas N. Carey Jr., 20, said the man knocked him over, causing a head cut when Carey's head struck a bookcase.

Carey related the man entered the office Sunday night, threatening to make trouble if he didn't get some "shots." The doctor's son injected six cc's of demerol into the arm of the man, who became drowsy.

Carey said as he picked up a phone to call police the man leaped and knocked him down. Carey suffered a head wound. The stranger had fled when Carey came to a half hour later.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes will enter a Baltimore hospital this week for a minor intestinal operation.

The governor will enter University Hospital Thursday for an expected stay of 10 days. His office said appointments would be canceled through June 6, including his scheduled appearance at the University of Maryland commencement on June 4.

Council Tables Request To Waive Cost Of Stand

The city yesterday tabled for one week a request from the Chamber of Commerce that it waive cost for erecting and disassembling the reviewing stand on Baltimore Street for the Sports CARnival parade.

Street Commissioner John J. Long who said the city "just doesn't go around erecting reviewing stands," said he had understood that the Sports CARnival group would pay labor costs in connection with erecting the stand.

The city contributed men, time and materials, taking its men off street work in order to do the job, he said.

Long said he has a letter and also informed officials by phone that the labor cost must be paid.

"I don't think asking for payment for labor is too much," he said.

Long said he had told the celebration officials on the phone that the city was not waiving labor costs and that all concerned should "play according to the rules."

In bid action yesterday, Mayor J. Edwin Keech was authorized to advertise for bids for a pickup truck, with trade-in, for the Flood Maintenance Department.

Commissioner G. Ray Light was authorized to advertise for 16 screens for installation at the gate house at Lake Gordon Dam. Present wood screens are deteriorating, Light said.

All bids for painting the Street Department warehouse on Valley Street were rejected, on recommendation of Long who will readvertise.

Judge Acquits Student In Road Death

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley yesterday issued a directed motion declaring Philip M. Davidson, 16, of LaVale, innocent of manslaughter by automobile.

The charge resulted in the death of a young companion, 16-year-old Harry L. Dean, on April 15. Dean was a passenger in a sports car operated by Davidson that went out of control on a curve on Oldtown Road at Spring Gap and landed upside down in the C&O Canal. Dean, who was pinned in the car by a safety belt, drowned in the mishap.

The request for a directed verdict was made by Attorney Milton Gerson, who said the state's evidence and witnesses failed to prove that his young client was guilty of gross negligence in the death of the Dean boy.

Testifying for the state were a 14-year-old boy, Donald Irons of Spring Gap, who was at the scene when the Davidson car left the highway; Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, and State Troopers George C. Wachter Jr. and Charles Snow.

A statement taken from the Davidson youth on the day of the fatal accident disclosed that he was attempting to pass a car as he approached a curve on the highway when his brakes locked and the vehicle went out of control.

The Davidson boy's statement also stated he could not recall all the details of the mishap. The car he apparently was passing stopped at the scene, with the driver informing the Irons youth that he would drive on and place a call for assistance. The unknown driver failed to do so.

Judge Fraley said he was convinced the driver of the sports car was careless in that he was driving too fast, but that no evidence was presented that indicated Davidson showed a "wanton and wilful disregard for human life," the basis on which gross negligence is determined.

The prosecution was handled by State's Attorney James S. Getty and Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney.

A charge of reckless driving against Davidson is pending in Trial Magistrate Court. Both charges were made at the time of the investigation, with the more serious count taking preference, court attaches explained.

Evitts Creek Stocked With Trout

Evitts Creek received its final stocking of adult legal-sized brown trout yesterday, Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, announced.

Today Swauger's Dam at New Germany State Park will receive its last trout of the season.

The rest of the year, small trout will be placed in Western Maryland waters, he said.

Frederick Street Paving Ordinance Is Introduced

Streets and alleys again highlighted a meeting of the Mayor and Council when it met yesterday.

In street activity, council withdrew the original ordinance which called for paving and improving Frederick Street from Linden Street north 1,430 feet. This ordinance had been the subject of a protest meeting last Wednesday at which residents of the area protested a plan whereby they would be responsible not only for resurfacing but for a new base and damaged sections of the curbing as well.

As a result of the Wednesday meeting, the city agreed to pay for the base and curb and charge residents for the resurfacing only.

Yesterday, an introductory ordinance giving notice to property owners was passed in which it was stated a hearing would be held June 6 on an ordinance for the resurfacing of Frederick Street from its intersection with Decatur Street north a distance of 2,230 feet. It includes paving, draining and curbing.

Street Commissioner John J. Long, meanwhile, was authorized to advertise for bids for installing the base from Linden 1,430 feet north.

The discussion on alleys occurred when the Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the lone bid for paving nine at a cost of $24,551.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light voted "No" and said, in explaining his vote that before spending the money on alleys "We should apply it to other streets which need it more than alleys." Also, he said, it is claimed there is no money to pave the streets which need it.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming pointed out the bid was being referred and was not up for final action until next week.

Then Commissioner Long commented he thought Light to be "out of line" although it was Light's privilege to state his opinion. Long said, in reply to Light, that maintenance and drainage of alleys is a major city problem and engineers say blacktopping is the most economical solution.

Light said he did not think he was "out of line" and had the right to state his opinion. Then he added:

"Well, I'll hold my 'no' vote for next week then."

Council Pays Tribute To Piper

The Mayor and Council yesterday expressed "deep personal loss" and paid tribute to the memory of Charles A. Piper, president of Liberty Trust Company, who was drowned in a South Branch boating accident last week.

In another resolution, council commended the Police Department for its handling of traffic during the recent Sports CARnival.

A third resolution supported the Warfield Commission report urging expansion of the University of Maryland and including Frostburg State Teachers College in the liberal arts plan.

Last week, Street Commissioner John J. Long urged the Mayor and Council to give consideration to supporting the commission report. Council also asked the General Assembly to pass appropriate legislation and ordered copies of the resolution sent to state officials.

Lakes Over Crest

Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon two inches above, Acting Superintendent Ray Nixon reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday. Consumption of water for the week ending Sunday was 90,895,000 gallons compared to 82,470,000 the same period a year ago.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Something must be done to save my sister's child but I don't know how to go about it.

Blanche was left a widow when her son was 18 months old. Her husband was well off and left her a lot of money.

I first sensed something was wrong when Blanche brought the boy to my son's birthday party. Curtice was 4 then. She had him dressed in an organdy pinafore and he wore a pink hair-bow in his uncut golden curls. He looked more feminine than some of the little girls.

Curtice is almost nine now. He seems to like to play ball with the boys at school and gets along fine with his classmates. But at home his mother makes him wear frilly dresses and gives him dolls to play with. Last year she took him on a trip in girls' clothes and called him "Karen."

I broached the subject recently when I saw nail polish on the boy. Blanche said, "There's nothing wrong with it. Girls dress like boys these days and no one thinks a thing of it." Please tell me what to do. — WORRIED AUNT

DEAR WORRIED: If Blanche thinks it's "all right" to dress a nine-year-old boy in girls' dresses she should have a talk with a head doctor or two. They will set her straight promptly.

It's too bad Blanche didn't remarry and get some male influence in the house. This boy will be ruined for life unless someone steps in and insists that his mother get professional help. She has a geranium in her cranium.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 20 and head over heels in love with a fellow 22. He married a girl because she got in a family way on purpose to hook him. If he had been a rat instead of a first-class gentleman he would have left her flat.

Syd promised to marry me when his son starts school which will be in three years. I'm willing to wait but my parents insist I move out of the house if I continue to see him. They say they won't allow their home to be used as headquarters for a trashy affair. How can I make them see that this is not just a cheap romance? Please help me, Ann. — SHARON

DEAR SHARON: You're half right — this is not just a cheap romance. It's going to be a very costly one. Costly for you, if you don't stop seeing this man.

He's married and therefore out of bounds. Your folks have a right to object to a married man coming to the house to court their daughter. Regardless of the circumstances, a married man is bad news, and you'll be labeled a home-wrecker if you continue to see him.

DEAR ANN: Our friends had a surprise house-warming party in our new home and it was a very "spirited" evening, if you know what I mean. Several people got thoroughly plastered and unfortunately, there was considerable damage done to the wallpaper, a lamp, a couple of tables and the carpeting.

My mother came over the next day and was appalled at the looks of the place. (I hadn't had a chance to clean it up.) She said the people who had caused the damage should be billed for same. Her suggestion was that the damage be added up, and each of the guests be billed, percentage-wise.

I'd rather die than do this. My husband thinks it's a good idea. What do YOU think? — SURPRISED

DEAR SURPRISED: Guests should not be asked to pay for the damage done on a social visit. However, I do suggest new friends.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Pool Room Gets Permit

The city yesterday took an about face and renewed the permit of James William Lebeck to operate a pool room at 33 North Liberty Street.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said that according to a ruling from City Attorney William R. Carscaden, the city has no right to reject the permit unless it has proper grounds. Therefore, he said, he made a motion that the license be issued.

The city had refused to renew the license on May 9. Last week, Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley in Allegany County Circuit Court enjoined the city from closing the pool room after Lebeck, through his attorney, disputed the legality of the pool room ordinance.

The city had granted the license June 1 a year ago and Lebeck has been operating the pool room since last August 3.

Fire Destroys W. Md. Depot At Frostburg

Intruders May Have Set Blaze

FROSTBURG — Fire believed to have been started by intruders yesterday morning destroyed the Frostburg depot of the Western Maryland Railway.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg reported the large brick structure went up in flames shortly after the first call was received at 3 a.m. as quantities of gasoline, Diesel oil and motor oil stored in the building, ignited.

Huge billows of flames and smoke were interspersed with the explosions of boxes of fusees and torpedoes.

Since the Western Maryland Railway acquired the C&P Railroad, the building had been used as a storage center for section gangs. The W. Md. uses the C&P depot for its Frostburg freight center.

Flames Awoke Woman

The Frostburg Fire Department answered the alarm at 3 a. m. when a woman said flames from the building had aroused her from sleep.

When the first truck arrived, the entire center section of the building was burning through the roof.

The station is located about one-quarter of a mile from the nearest hydrant and firemen had to string a line before any water was available.

The flames spread rapidly into the south end of the structure and firemen were cautioned by neighbors that gas and oil were stored in that part of the building.

Big "Blow Torches"

Shortly after this, intense flames could be seen as the heated fuels in barrels escaped and resembled blow torches.

In a matter of minutes, several explosions ripped this end of the building, causing the fire to spread to all parts of the structure.

Flames and smoke rose several hundred feet in the air. As the roof fell in, water played on the fire had very little effect.

Several firemen escaped injury when the west side of the structure fell outwards, leaving tons of debris and bricks where the men had been standing just seconds before.

Doors Found Open

The Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company laid a hose from Main Street to the fire, but by this time the building was wrecked by the flames and explosions.

Jacobs said William Platter, a Frostburg bakery owner, was on his way to work when he saw the flames. He arrived at the depot before the trucks and stated that doors were open.

The deputy fire marshal said this led him to believe that intruders had broken into the building.

Investigation Underway

Jacobs later questioned G. D. Smith, Mt. Savage, section foreman for the Western Maryland, as to the contents of the structure.

Stored in it were eight barrels of gasoline; four drums of Diesel oil, ten barrels of kerosene, three 55-gallon drums of grease, one barrel of switch grease, three boxes of fusees, one box of torpedoes and one welding outfit.

At the scene yesterday were Maryland State Police investigators along with officials of the Western Maryland Railway.

Frostburg Depot Is Mass Of Rubble And Debris

This scene, taken after fire wrecked the Western Maryland Railway depot at Frostburg, shows the destructive nature of the fire which was out of control when fire companies arrived. Inflammable oil, gasoline and other materials stored in the building fed the flames and added to the difficulty of control. Origin of the blaze is being investigated.

Piedmont KC Charter Is Transferred

Jurisdiction Is Given To Maryland

PIEDMONT—The West Virginia State Council, Knights of Columbus, has formally approved the transfer of the charter of Piedmont Council 685 from West Virginia to the Maryland State Council.

J. William McKone, local grand knight, reported that following lengthy discussion the State Council unanimously agreed to the charter transfer and accepted a resolution submitted by the local council.

A similar resolution requesting acceptance of the transfer was submitted yesterday afternoon when the State Council of Maryland met in Ocean City. Final approval of the transfer must be given by the Supreme Board in New Haven, Conn.

Raymond Beckner, past grand knight, who introduced the resolution to the state unit, pointed ou to the delegates that Piedmont Council has 103 members residing in Maryland while only 51 reside in West Virginia and 16 in other states. A total of 154 members belong to parishes in the Archdiocese of Baltimore. He further pointed out that the present council home is not large enough to accommodate a general membership meeting.

Members of the council tentatively plan to obtain a new home in Maryland, should the Supreme Board approve the transfer of the charter.

McKone and Beckner attended the Ocean City convention to formally request approval of the charter transfer to the Maryland Council.

The Piedmont group voted to co-sponsor Miss Catherine Lupis as candidate for Blue Angel queen. Kenny's Sanitary Market had previously indicated sponsorship of Miss Lupis to reign over Blue Angel Week.

Fifteen members of the local council will be initiated into the fourth degree at ceremonies next Sunday in Cumberland. Prior to the initiation, local members of the fourth degree will hold a corporate communion at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, and attend a breakfast honoring the candidates.

Court Refuses Vote Upset

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Supreme Court Monday turned down a Morgantown man's bid to upset the primary election voting in the Democratic race for second congressional district delegates to the party's national convention in Los Angeles.

Minter L. Wilson sought to have the high court order the Barbour County Court to throw out all votes cast in the election. He claimed his name had been left off ballots used by Democratic voters in Barbour County.

The high court split, 3-2, as Judges Chauncey Browning and Thornton Berry would have granted the petition.

Wilson said that in the other 14 counties of the district, unofficial returns showed he polled the second highest number of votes for one of the two convention seats allocated the district. However, when Barbour County votes were added to the total, Mrs. Virginia Wilson of Romney took over second place.

"Overdoing" What Comes Naturally

It's not what teen-age girls DO that clamors for the wrong kind of attention. It's what they OVERDO. And they usually overdo as a crowd!

If the clan "uniform" becomes bulky sweaters and socks with arrow-straight skirts, then the sweaters and socks must be grossly shapeless, the skirts skintight and too long.

For a party, the crowd will overdress, theatrically copying glamour ads. On the other hand, they tend to interpret casual costumes to mean apparel that is sloppy and careless, with grooming to match.

When the gang applies cosmetics, it's the signal for full battle regalia...eyes paint-coated, mouths contorted with thick gum of a plummy color, nails filed into chipped-carmine swords.

And when the group speaks, it shrieks. Truly, one must speak louder than the other, in order to be heard at all.

It's not just their parents who are conservative enough to cringe at the distortions created by too much of so many good things. If anything, teen-age boys are, by nature, more conservative than most parents— and that includes Victorian mamas and papas.

They cant help noticing what the noticeable girls are overdoing— but there is a broad jump between notice and attraction.

Smart young girls, from junior high school up, will recognize that most boys want to date girls who make them feel comfortable and reassured. They are frightened away by girls who affect extremes in dress and behavior.

Far more sensitive to criticism than most girls realize, boys dont want to feel embarrassed and apologetic because of their "company taste."

However noisy and casual boys may act with one another, they want their dates to be "understated," to be dainty and demure, neat and natural.

So, if the girls overdo anything, it should be in the interests of good grooming. Let them shower and shampoo oftener, help one another achieve attractive coiffures; devote as much time to taking care of their clothes as they do to experimenting with cosmetics.

Together, they can share all the books and magazine articles on modest, becoming fashions in dress and makeup for their age. Together they can study the effects of nutrition and exercise on the figure and complection.

One booklet they might do well to study in concert (literally!) is Your Most Attractive Voice, obtained for only 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope mailed to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper.

"Blue Cross protection doesn't shrink when hospital costs rise!"

...says Samuel B. Schofield, Dean of Administration, Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md.

Ordinary hospitalization programs provide benefits in terms of fixed dollar allowances for certain types of services. The trouble is, when hospital costs are rising —as during the present inflationary period—these fixed allowances cover less and less of the hospital bill. The benefits, in effect, shrink!

By contrast, Blue Cross covers most hospital services in full. If the cost of those services goes up, Blue Cross still covers them—in full!

In hospitalization programs—as in anything else—it's not just what you spend, but what you get for what you spend. Mail this coupon today for the full story on Blue Cross. Compare Blue Cross with other programs. You'll be impressed by the difference.

The Cold War Of The Air Waves

Radio Moscow's North American Service—the Russian counterpart of the Voice of America—has increased the number of broadcasts beamed to this country. The service recently invited its American listeners on the East Coast to tune in new morning programs (9 to 9:30 a. m. EDT) in addition to the regular evening broadcasts, which commence at 7 p. m. EDT and run until 1:30 a. m. EDT.

The English-language morning program consists of the "news" (actually a commentary), a review of Moscow's morning newspapers, with music added. As usual, Radio Moscow is asking American listeners to submit any questions they may have about Communist society. The questions are answered by mail or on the air.

Radio Moscow's American audience is a limited one because short-wave radios never have won the popularity here they enjoy in most foreign countries. But the broadcasts come in loud and clear on as many as 15 different frequencies for listeners who do have short-wave sets. A similar service to the West Coast operates from 8 p. m. to 12:30 a. m. PDT.

This country never has jammed the Soviet broadcasts, or the two hours of daily English-language transmissions from Communist China. Russia jammed the Voice of America Russian-language broadcasts until Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States last September, and resumed selective interference on May 5 after the U-2 plane incident.

American listeners tuning in Radio Moscow's North American Service on May 7 would have been treated to this dissertation on evils of the spy plane incident: "The public of this country would like to know why U.S. aircraft find it necessary to snoop around the Soviet Union. Soviet planes do not molest U. S. frontiers. And why has the Pentagon circled this country with bases? The Soviet Union has no bases in foreign countries."

So goes the battle for loyalties in the Cold

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Behind The Times

Politicians usually regard themselves as very practical. This obviously cannot be so, for one of these Jove-like creatures must be defeated at each election. It can then be reasoned that the one who is out is the one who knows less than the one who gets in. Actually no such clear-cut conclusion can be reached. Politicians guess, the same as you and I.

This is a curious country because the population is in a constant state of flux. It was not so many years ago that the number of Americans who attended college was few. Colleges were comparatively costly. Graduate schools were not too available in this country. Those who sought higher education went to Europe, principally to Germany. In fact, our system of higher education was modelled on the German rather than the British universities.

Today, although some of our colleges are not superior to earlier high schools, it is true that millions of young people attend colleges of some kind. They learn how to read and if they are overmajorized, they nevertheless have had some contact with ideas. Politicians do not find it so easy to deal with the current crop of young people. Some of them, like the Beatniks, may look queer and even have funny ideas, but they can, if they want to, read. This makes it very tough for the practical politicians.

Look at the ages of the current breed of Presidential candidates: Kennedy, 42; Nixon, 47; Johnson, 51; Symington, 58. These are comparatively young men, younger than candidates usually have been, although Theodore Roosevelt was only 42 years old when he became President.

Candidates for public office have to speak the language of their own generation. The brassy, shouting, boy-from-the-log-cabin candidate has nothing to say to the current generation. Hubert Humphrey talked about what might be called bread-and-butter questions and in an era of inflation, he sounded like William Jennifigs Bryan berating William McKinley. It had no meaning against John Kennedy who spoke a Harvard broad A and looked literate. Humphrey had once been a university professor, come to Earth and gone liberal. So what? The youngsters know lots of professors and many are squares.

Also the politician has to note the rise in white collar workers. Their income amounts to 53.4 per cent of all income. They own lots of small houses all over the place. They have pretty wives who dress up and like good things. An astonishingly large number of these workers are professionals, chemists, physicists, biologists, technicians of various kinds, accountants, and all sorts of specialists. Most of these are not only college graduates; many have at least an M.A. They are employed in every growing industry and hit the time clock the same as any other worker but they have the advantage of being specialists. Actually, there is always a shortage of top white collar workers, from presidents of corporations down to first-rate stenographers.

The politician has a hard time with this new element. Adlai Stevenson thought in two campaigns that he had these college-trained voters. He talks their language and he has advertised himself as an intellectual rather than a politician, but twice, he was defeated. Whatever it was, Stevenson has never been able to win as much popularity among this element in our population as he had expected.

Stevenson, in fact, is a political phenomenon. Practically unknown, he became Governor of Illinois. The politicians permitted him to run for the Presidency during two campaigns when no Democrat could have been elected. This gave Stevenson stature, but he hardly did much about it. He saw John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson garner the delegates for the 1960 Convention, but he went travelling in South America, whence little news came from him. When the Humphrey effort failed and he withdrew, Stevenson became more active, perhaps hopeful to benefit by a transfer of A.D.A. influence from Humphrey to Stevenson. But how many delegates did Humphrey garner? Too few to matter.

The white collar element does not seem to turn to a political oddity for leadership. It is rather establishing a new type of middle class—not an employing class, but intellectuals who work not so much in schools and colleges but in industry and government. This change in population characteristics cannot be ignored in this campaign.

Does Khrushchev Want Stevenson Elected?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Does Nikita Khrushchev want to see Adlai Stevenson elected President of the United States in November so that he can negotiate a deal at the next "summit" conference?

Does Mr. Khrushchev hope that Mr. Stevenson, if not nominated, will be considered for the post of Secretary of State in a Democratic administration, as Senator Kennedy hinted the other day?

Why was Mr. Stevenson, in an interview published in Paris a week ago Sunday, quoted as favoring an allied retreat on the Berlin problem?

Why did Mr. Stevenson last Thursday night tell a political dinner meeting in Chicago that the administration has "helped make successful negotiations with the Russians — negotiations that are vital to our survival — impossible so long as they are in power"?

These questions are prompted by a strange sequence of circumstances. Thus on March 9 last the "New York Times" printed a United Press International dispatch from Moscow which read:

"Soviet Premier Khrushchev has his own opinions about the United States' Democratic Party's Presidential possibilities, he revealed tonight. He put Adlai Stevenson at the top of his list in comments to Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco at a dinner. Mr. Khrushchev's rating of the Democrats:

"Mr. Stevenson: the best among United States politicians.

"Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts: able, but some reservations about his youthfulness.

"Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri: he's a 'good' man."

No other Presidential aspirants were mentioned, not even Senator Humphrey, who had once participated in a marathon conference of several hours with the Soviet premier. Mr. Stevenson also conferred at length with Mr. Khrushchev in Moscow and wrote articles about him, but they did not contain any of the sting that the Minnesota Senator included in his published remarks.

Mr. Stevenson, therefore, apparently is the favorite of Mr. Khrushchev, who has brushed aside the old rule of diplomacy that a foreign government must not interfere in the political campaigns of another country. The Soviet premier evidently thinks that Mr. Stevenson, as the titular head of the Democratic Party, speaks for it.

But James A. Farley, former Postmaster General in the cabinet of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has just issued a statement urging the Democratic Party to repudiate Mr. Stevenson's speech of last Thursday night. Mr. Farley said in part:

"The unwarranted attack of Mr. Adlai E. Stevenson on the President's conduct of the summit negotiations, in my opinion, in no way represents the thinking of the Democratic Party . . . in his few remaining weeks as titular spokesman of the Democratic Party he has indicated every reason why the Democratic Party in convention should select a spokesman who speaks for it in fact. I can think of no more effective way of doing so than by a unanimous resolution of condemnation and repudiation of his absurd speech in Chicago as representing the views of the Democratic Party."

The strangest episode of all, however, is the interview with Mr. Stevenson which Soviet Premier Khrushchev read in "Paris-Press L'Intransigeant" just after his recent arrival in Paris. That interview was written by Robert Boulay after a visit to Mr. Stevenson's home at Libertyville, Ill., where he said he spent an afternoon, together with other guests. The article, with a streamer headline across the page, said that Adlai Stevenson had proposed virtually a retreat from Berlin and American troop withdrawal from Europe. The published interview was a shock to Americans abroad, coming as it did just a few days before the "summit" conference was to open. Evidently Mr. Khrushchev read it carefully, because in his own speech at East Berlin last Friday he paraphrased one of the points in the interview to charge that Chancellor Adenauer had succeeded "in worming his way to the post of Secretary of State of the United States."

Mr. Boulay, in his interview, quotes Mr. Stevenson as having said:

"For ten years there has not really been a Secretary of State for American foreign policy. During that period the real American Secretary of State has been German Chancellor Adenauer."

In other parts of the same interview, Mr. Stevenson is quoted as favoring American concessions, such as a substantial decrease in Allied troops in West Berlin. He is reported to have declared also that he could foresee in the future the pulling of American forces out of Europe. When asked whether there would be a change in American foreign policy after the November elections, Mr. Stevenson is quoted as having said: "There will be important changes in American foreign policy."

Mr. Stevenson last Tuesday denied ever having given any interview at all to any Paris newspaper. But he issued a statement to the "Chicago Daily News" the next day admitting that he had talked with Robert Boulay but calling the published interview incorrect. He said it did not represent his views and that "the most charitable explanation of such irresponsibility, presumption and discourtesy is that his English was poor and my French no better."

In Paris, however, Americans who know Mr. Boulay say he writes and talks English very well and is a reliable reporter. Just what did Mr. Stevenson really say to Mr. Boulay? Maybe all this is something for the Democrats in Congress to include in their investigation of recent events. For there is no doubt that an appeasement faction exists today inside the Democratic Party, and certainly Mr. Stevenson's speech — just four days before the all-important debate at the United Nations Security Council — helped to wreck bipartisan unity in this country.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CAMPAIGN MATERIAL — The Smithsonian Institution, aware that this is a political year, will place its large collection of campaign material on display in June. It undoubtedly will provide a new attraction for tourists and vacationers this summer and autumn. The Smithsonian has long been a "must" attraction for visitors to Washington.

The collection of cartoons, posters, pamphlets and tracts covers the entire period of American political development from George Washington's inauguration in 1789 down to the present. Arrangements have been completed with the major political parties to present copies of their literature in future campaigns so the collection can be kept current.

Some of the items, particularly the cartoons and some of the more scurrilous pamphlets of the Nineteenth Century, make present day politics look mild by comparison.

Among the 20,000 items are innumerable songsheets which boomed the candidacies of men like Abraham Lincoln. The songs were sung throughout the land as a popular form of entertainment of the day.

When the Smithsonian's new museum is completed in 1962, the campaign collection will go on permanent exhibition, showing milestones in political techniques, including the railroad car, the airplane, and possibly a model of a television studio.

10-Point Program To Keep Men Alive Longer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is time for the male population to invest in health. The dividends are greater than from stocks and bonds and they are not taxable or influenced by the market or inflation. Here is a 10 point program that should improve health and longevity. Start now — you'll never get any younger — if you want to get older.

1. Have a good physical examination to determine the present state of health. Minor ailments can be corrected and adverse conditions that shorten life, such as diabetes and high blood pressure, often can be controlled.
2. Bring weight down to normal whether you are 12 years old or 65.
3. Acquire good eating habits, including planned meals containing the basic food elements.
4. Be moderate in all things, including the use of stimulants, alcohol, and tobacco.
5. Establish a physical fitness program in keeping with age and the present physical condition.
6. Avoid accidents by concentrating on safety and eliminating all booby traps and other potential sources of injury.
7. Stop killing yourself to make your widow rich. Get ample rest and take advantage of every vacation.
8. Cultivate good mental health and strive for happiness and tranquility. Avoid contacts that create worry, anxiety, insecurity, loneliness, and other emotional disturbances. Religion is most helpful here.
9. When the time comes, retire if you have nothing better to do.
10. Consult your physician when symptoms develop; more so, when they persist.

TOMORROW: Wishing off warts.

DIAPER TEST

Mrs. M. writes: After reading your article on the diaper test to find out whether a baby has phenyketonuria, I wondered if the mother could do this test.

REPLY

Yes. A recently available dip-and-read test (Phenistix) makes the results more dependable than in the past. But the physician who delivered the baby will be glad to make the test for you. If he finds the defect, he will prescribe a special dietary mixture with a low phenylalanine content. This is a metabolic disease of babies (PKU) that results in mental retardation unless treated soon after birth.

CROSS-EYE

C. H. R. writes: What treatment do you recommend for a 1 year old with cross-eye?

REPLY

The tot should be examined by an eye specialist because cross-eye in young children often can be cured without surgery. Conservative measures include placing a patch over the good eye, to force the lazy eye to work. Other measures may be used as the child becomes more cooperative.

ENDOMETRIOSIS

A. B. writes: Can a woman with endometriosis conceive?

REPLY

Yes, but 75 per cent of women with this condition are sterile. Some become pregnant before endometriosis develops.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Pop Larkins drove his wife and six kids to town one Saturday afternoon and, after two hours of hunting, finally found a parking space. Relief registered strongly on his face as he maneuvered the car into the long-sought haven; then he turned to his family and exclaimed, "And that's that! Now does anybody remember why we drove to town?"

Horace Greeley, always a newspaper, editor with rules of his own, insisted that "news" be treated as a plural noun. Accordingly, he wired his star reporter one night, "What are the news?" The reporter answered, "There's not a darned new!"

Two Vassar seniors were exchanging confidences. "During my whole vacation," declared the first, "I didn't allow one man to make love to me." "Really," cooed her friend. "Which one was that?"

Children Of Today May Suffer The Consequences Of Summit Failure

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter on the summit conference written to his daughter, Mrs. Dwight Whitney, in Los Angeles.)

My dear daughter,

I have been in Paris for a conference which carried the hopes of all mankind but which has dashed those hopes into irretrievable bits and pieces.

I can't write about it to your sons as I sometimes do, because they wouldn't understand it. And even if they could, I wouldn't want to depress them with my pessimism. But you, who have borne sons, and all the mothers whose sons may have to fight another war, should know what has happened and why.

During past years I have watched a good many of the world's faltering steps toward peace — three of them here in Paris. When I was a young newspaperman and you were a cute two-year-old baby I came to Paris when Secretary of State Kellogg signed the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war.

It was a thrilling ceremony. All over the world people rejoiced at the thought that war would be no more.

That was in 1928, and only a couple of years later the Japanese war lords landed in Manchuria to start a small local conflict which gradually was to erode and spread into major war.

I came to Paris again when World War II was over to watch Jimmy Byrnes, then Secretary of State, try to write a treaty of peace. That was in 1946. Your first son was born that year, and I remember the hope I had, and that millions of others had, that he and other children would not grow up to fight another war; the hope that this treaty of peace would really bring peace.

That treaty was never written. Russia, then represented by a bitter old Bolshevik, Foreign Minister Molotov, rejected the terms.

History Of Mistakes

But gradually, despite that failure, the world has moved toward peace. Little by little we have come to understand other countries better, including Russia. And this summit conference which has now failed, was to have written an important chapter in that understanding.

The chapter that has now been written, however, is a very black one, and I have been sitting here figuring out the moves that could have been made to have had it end in success rather than failure.

The history of these mistakes is important. Because we can't stop at failure. We have to try to pick up the pieces and grope ahead toward peace. To admit failure, to stop where we are, means certain drift toward war.

I think the first mistake was to postpone the summit conference. It was in September that Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower first decided at Camp David to hold a summit conference, and originally it was to be held in December. Then it was postponed and postponed. Finally President de Gaulle set the date — May 16. And he set it eight months after the Camp David talks in order to give France time to explode its own atomic bomb.

Thus we used a warlike reason for postponing a conference to promote peace.

Another thing President Eisenhower forgot is that peace is very delicate and tender. It can be eroded by a lot of little mistakes just as a lot of little streams can wash away a beautiful garden. Like a garden, peace must be cared for every day. The weeds of bitterness and hate have to be pulled out. You can't go off and play golf or bridge, leaving the garden of peace to sharecroppers or tenant farmers.

Ike Abdicated

This is what the President did, however. Eisenhower is sincerely a man of peace. I believe that more than anything else in life he wanted to build a peaceful world. But Mr. Eisenhower is not always well, is a little old, and sometimes a little lazy. He went off and left the garden of peace too much to others.

In fact he pretty much abdicated the leadership of the western world to President de Gaulle. He left the question of Berlin almost entirely in the hands of de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer. He took their word that it would not come up at the Paris conference when actually it was certain to come up.

And he let his own subordinates, Undersecretary of State Dillon and Secretary Herter, deliver tirades against the Russians shortly before a conference in which he had to get along with the Russians; also despite an agreement at Camp David that leaders of both the USA and USSR would refrain from critical speeches. They were busy planting weeds of bitterness in the garden of peace.

Finally, Ike came to Paris with little advance preparation for what was to be one of the most important conferences of the century. He relied on charm and the old Eisenhower smile to win over Mr. Khrushchev.

Then as you know, an observation plane which never should have been sent over Russia at this time, was shot down — another illustration of how isolated, unrelated incidents can erode and destroy the peace. When you're trying to build up peace you have to keep an eye on every possible incident; you can't let anything detract or destroy what you're aiming at. Unfortunately the President, with all his fine motives, was not alert to guard the great goal which he himself so cherished.

I'll explain why he didn't in another letter or in the column, even though you don't like to read the newspapers. Meanwhile my love to my three energetic grandsons, and to you.

Your father

Facts To Be Faced

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS

After the ugly scenes of the aborted summit meeting, it is wise to make up a sort of balance sheet of facts to be faced.

The first fact that needs facing, alas, is the grave loss of prestige and confidence that President Eisenhower has suffered. As Walter Lippmann has written, it is right that men of all parties should rally to the President, but it is also wrong to be self-deluding. The affair of the U-2 has caused America's greatest friends in the Western alliance to conclude that America's present leadership is bumbling and maladroit.

There is no use arguing about the justice or injustice of this conclusion. It is there, like the weather; and like the weather, it has to be taken into consideration.

The second fact to be faced is less painful to American self-esteem but decidedly more alarming. The leadership of the other great world-block is even more dangerous and implacable than all but the worst of pessimists had imagined in their gloomiest moments.

After seeing Nikita S. Khrushchev do everything but froth at the mouth and chew the carpet at his incredible press conference, a great many observers in Paris began to use the grim adjective, "Hitlerian." In this reporter's opinion, the adjective is misapplied. Khrushchev was intentionally making Hitler-like noises, in order to intimidate as Hitler intimidated. But those who know the man best believe that he was doing this from calculation, and not because he was carried away as the neurotic Hitler so often used to be.

But even if Khrushchev is not semi-lunatic, as Adolf Hitler was, the consolation is trifling. The character of his mental processes are not very important, after all, if he is capable of talking as he has talked and acting as he has threatened to act. The Khrushchev seen in Paris was no jolly, proverb-quoting, detente-seeking peasant. This man was a political carnivore, cheated of his prey.

As for the third and final fact to be faced, it flows directly from the second. A major effort to strengthen the military defenses of the West is now a matter of great urgency. This is clearly true, even although the incident of the U-2 has revealed a current balance of power that seems to be reasonably satisfactory.

There are two reasons why a strengthened defense effort is now urgent. On the one hand, no one who has watched Khrushchev's macabre and brutal performance in Paris can doubt that this man is capable of striking at the U. S. and the West with every bomb in his arsenal, if ever he believed he can do so with impunity. On the other hand, the military balance, though still apparently satisfactory, is plainly tilting in Khrushchev's favor. Later on, therefore, he may come to believe it is safe to strike. This is what has to be averted at all costs.

The main things that need doing are the same things that were discussed during the debate on national defense at the beginning of the year. Appropriations are needed to inaugurate a maximum airborne alert of the Strategic Air Command's entire force of B-52 bombers. The airborne alert ought to begin now, and continue a full strength until the U. S. striking power in long range guided missiles has been massively augmented.

Similarly the buildup of the long range missiles ought to be increased in every way possible, and every dollar should be appropriated that can be used to speed the two reconnaissance satellite projects, Midas and Semos. In addition, the affair of the U-2 plainly proves the shortsightedness of the policymakers who have cut back production of the B-52-H bomber almost to zero.

Here is a bomber with the range, speed, and altitude characteristics that will allow it to imitate the U-2s performance. It can go almost where it will in the skies above the Soviet Union, just as the U-2 did for so long. It is not menaced, so far as is known, by improvements in the Soviet air defense system, whereas the B-52, flying at lower speeds and at somewhat lower altitudes, may well be menaced later on.

It is hard to understand how any policyholder can have all but stopped production of the B-52-H bomber, with the example of the U-2 before his eyes. But this is what was done. And this is what should now be undone as far as possible.

More costly defense programs; still deeper distrust of the Kremlin; apologies needed for our own leaderships performance — they make an unpleasant list. But we have now been warned. It can be very dangerous indeed if the warning is ignored.

Sandy Koufax Hurls One-Hitter, Stops Pirates, 1-0

Los Angeles Lefthander Whiffs Ten

United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —Los Angeles southpaw Sandy Koufax hurled a brilliant one-hitter Monday night and struck out 10 to break his six-game losing streak with a 1-0 shutout over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Despite the loss the Pirates still retained a one-game lead over the idle San Francisco Giants.

The 24-year-old curve ball artist won his first game since last Aug. 31 when he set down San Francisco, 5-2, and struck out 18 at the Coliseum. He raised his 1960 strikeout total to 43 in 38 2-3 innings for the best fanning record of any National League pitcher.

Koufax now has 529 strikeouts in the 558 innings he has pitched since he broke into the National League in 1955. He has the best strikeout record of any active NL pitcher.

Fans Skinner Twice

Although Koufax walked six, he pitched himself out of trouble by silencing the big guns in the Pirate lineup. He struck out Bob Skinner, the team's second best hitter, twice and fanned Roberto Clemente, the NL batting leader, once and got him on infield putouts on three other trips.

The only Pirate batter to get a hit was starter and losing pitcher Benny Daniels who singled to left field in the second inning.

Daniels allowed only four hits—the Dodger total for the game—but two of them were doubles to Norman Larker and Tommy Davis that produced the game's only run in the seventh inning.

Daniels struck out six and allowed three walks, two of which were intentional, before he was lifted for a pinchhitter in the seventh inning. Roy Face pitched hitless ball in two innings of relief.

Daniels Gets Hit

Koufax allowed two walks in the first inning but struck out the side. In the next inning, when he allowed his only hit, the Pirates filled the bases on walks to Skinner and Bill Mazeroski and Daniels' only hit. But Dick Groat hit into a forced play and the three runners were stranded.

The lefthander was never in serious trouble the rest of the way and only eight of his pitches reached the outfield.

Cubs Win, 7-6, In 13 Innings

CINCINNATI (AP) — George Altman's second home run of the season hoisted Chicago Cubs to a 13th inning victory over Cincinnati Monday night 7-6.

It was one of a half dozen homers sprayed around Crosley Field —four by the Reds.

Ben Johnson, last of five Chicago pitchers to try his hand, picked up the victory after two innings of work.

In the bottom of the 13th, he retired the last three redlegs in order.

All but one Cincinati run came on homers, including Gus Bell's two-run poke in the bottom of the 12th that gave the Reds a 6-6 tie.

Charleston Senators Get Don Mincher

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— The Washington Senators gave Charleston more batting power Monday night with the option of first baseman Don Mincher to the American Assn. Senators.

Mincher, who went to Washington in a deal for Roy Sievers with the Chicago White Sox, was something of a sensation at the beginning of the season. He recently yielded first base to Bob Allison.

The old champ, Joe Louis, may be able to help Floyd Patterson get in a fierce frame of mind for the return with Ingemar Johansson on June 20 but Louis is no authority on how to evade a right hand punch like Ingo's. . .Joe never quite got the hang of that himself. . .After Max Schmeling kayoed Louis with right hands, he later was floored by rights from Jimmy Braddock, Tony Galento, Jersey Joe Walcott and Rocky Marciano.

4 Americans Win British Golf Matches

Amateur Tests Are Under Way

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (AP) — Only four Americans, headed by Tim Holland of Rockville Centre, N.Y., staggered off the rain and wind-swept Portrush links Monday with first round victories in the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Ten of their fellow countrymen, feeling even colder, wetter and more miserable in defeat were eliminated by weather-hardened players from the British Isles. Most of the Americans beaten Monday and those who advanced with byes are stationed in Europe.

The U.S. contingent made its worst start in this tournament since World War II. But there were excuses for Uncle Sam's linksmen. Some of them had never even seen rain as hard as this Irish soaker before.

Counting players who received first round byes, the Americans had 15 shooters still left in the tournament. None of them, however, is in the class of Deane Beman, the collegian from Silver Spring, Md., who won last year but did not return to defend the crown.

Top favorite in the starting field of 180 was Dublin's Joe Carr, a two-time winner and a semifinalist on four other occasions. The Irish star and the seven other seeded players — all from the British Isles — received first round byes.

All matches are over 18 holes except for the 36-hole semifinals and final on Friday and Saurday over the 6,842-yard, par 36-36—72 layout.

Holland, a semifinalist in this tournament in 1958, eliminated another American, Peter Grant of Phoenix, Ariz., 4 and 2.

Venetian Way Will Prove Better Than Bally Ache

Sovinski Declares Belmont Stakes Next Month Is Real Test

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Trainer Vic Sovinski said Monday Venetian Way is a better horse than Bally Ache and will prove it in days to come.

Venetian Way won the May 7 Kentucky Derby by some 3½ lengths with Bally Ache second. But Bally Ache led all the way in capturing the Preakness last Saturday by four lengths with Venetian Way fifth in the field of six.

Sovinski, who arrived here at Garden State Park Monday, asserted that the mile and a half Belmont Stakes in New York next month would be the real test.

"Those who think Bally Ache can lick Venetian Way by a city block may have to swing over after the Belmont," said Sovinski.

"The Preakness didn't change my mind on the ability of these two horses," the trainer said. "Bally Ache, of course, is a good horse. He's been out of the money only once, and you have to give him credit. But I'm not convinced he's better than Venetian Way."

Sovinski now is readying Venetian Way for the $100,000 added Jersey Derby at Garden State Memorial Day. Bally Ache plus C. V. Whitney's Tompion and Bourbon Prince also are slated to go in the Jersey at a mile and a furlong. This gives the race four of the first five finishers in the Kentucky Derby.

Jose Becerra Retains His Ring Title

Bantam Champion Defeats Yonekura

By JAMES CARY
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (AP) — World bantamweight champion Jose Becerra of Mexico retained his title Monday night by gaining a narrow split decision over Japan's Kenji Yonekura in a 15-round bout telecast throughout Japan.

A crowd of about 25,000 in the 40,000 - seat Korakuen baseball stadium saw the hard-hitting Mexican champion chase the retreating challenger throughout the fight.

Wins 21st Straight

But the 24-year-old Becerra, winner of 40 fights by knockouts, never could pin his fleet-footed opponent and set him up for a knockout. He didn't even score a knockdown. It was Becerra's 21st straight victory, 15 of them by knockouts.

The broad shouldered champion won the 118-pound division crown by knockout of France's Alphonse Halimi in 1959 and he put Halimi down for the full count again in their return bout last February.

Anthony Maceroni, the president of the National Boxing Assn., from Providence, R.I., cast the deciding ballot. He had Becerra the winner, 147-141, under the 10-point scoring system. Referee Ramon Berumen of Mexico voted for Becerra, 146-142. Judge Ko Toyama of Japan had Yonekura ahead, 148-143.

Guaranteed $50,000

For his second title defense, Becerra received a $50,000 guarantee. The 25-year-old Yonekara, in his 11th professional fight, was guaranteed only $2,000. He came out of the fight, however, with addded prestige.

Yonekura's record is 7-4 compared to Becerra's 68-4-2 won-lost-draw log. Each weighed 117½ pounds.

"I was sure I had him all the way but I just couldn't catch him," said Becerra. "He is agile, fast and has good legs — very good legs. I kept trying for a knockout but I couldn't get to him."

"I thought I won," said the disappointed challenger. "His punches didn't hurt nearly as much as I was told they would."

Milt Pappas Lost To Birds For Week

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Milt Pappas of the Baltimore Orioles, a 15-game winner last season who has had arm trouble this spring, will be lost to the team for at least a week.

The 21-year-old right-hander rejoined the team Monday night after a trip to Baltimore for an examination of his sore elbow. His problem was diagnosed as muscular.

Pappas will undergo heat treatments and won't be allowed to throw for six or seven days.

The young pitcher had a 15-9 record last year, his second full season in the major leagues. His earned run average was 3.27.

This season, his record is 2-4 with a 6.90 ERA in 30 innings. Wildness has been his chief trouble — he has given 22 walks—and Manager Paul Richards thinks the soreness has caused Pappas to deliver the ball differently.

Yankees Edge Kansas City In Ninth, 4-3

Howard's Sacrifice Fly Decides Game

By DON SWANSON
United Press International

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Pinch-hitter Elston Howard's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning scored Gil McDougald and gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory Monday over the Kansas City Athletics.

By winning, the Yankees continued their domination over the Athletics. It was their 21st victory in the last 26 games between the two clubs, and gave New York a 4-0 edge this year.

Howard's long fly to right-center field came with McDougald on third and Bobby Richardson second, each of whom had walked and broke a 3-3 deadlock.

The Yankees' first three runs came in the second inning on singles by Roger Maris, Richardson, and Bob Turley, a fielder's choice, and a double by Tony Kubek.

Kansas City hopped on its old nemesis, Turley, for three hits and one run in the first inning and chased the fast-balling right-hander with a four - hit, two-run rally in the sixth.

The first Kansas City run came on singles by Jerry Lumpe, Russ Snyder and Whitey Herzog. The Athletics got their other two runs in the sixth on a triple by Norm Siebern and singles by Herzog, Harry Chiti and Andy Carey.

Rookie John Gabler picked up his second victory of the season in relief, hurling two scoreless innings. He needed help, however, from Ryne Duren in the ninth. Duren retired the A's on three strikeouts.

Ray Herbert went the route and absorbed the loss, his second defeat in four decisions.

St. Paddy Is 5-1 Choice In Derby

LONDON (AP) — Sir Victor Sassoon's colt St. Paddy, England's big hope to win the Epsom Derby classic from the Irish and French trained horses, spurted to odds of 5-1 Monday.

When bookies met at their headquarters at London's Victoria Club to fix the odds, St. Paddy displaced the American-owned Die Hard as second favorite.

Sassoon's horse a week ago was third on the list at 10-1. He boosted his prospects with a handsome win in the Dante Stakes at York last week.

MacKay, Ayala Eliminated By Brazilian Duo

Miss Hard Advances In French Tourney

PARIS (UPI)—Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., blasted her way into the women's singles semifinals in the French International Tennis championships Monday by rallying to defeat Renee Schurrman of South Africa, 5-7, 6-2, 11-9.

However, the American forces suffered a shocking setback in the quarter-finals of the men's doubles when Davis Cup star Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Luis Ayala of Chile were eliminated by the young Brazilian team of Carlos Fernandez and Ronald Barnes, 12-10, 6-3, 6-4.

The men's singles division also produced a surprise when Robert Haillet of France gained a berth in the semifinals at the expense of Wimbledon champion Neale Fraser of Australia, who had to abandon their match in the decisive fifth set because of leg cramps.

In the semifinals, Miss Hard will oppose Maria Esther Bueno of Brazil, the 1959 Wimbledon champion, who also needed three sets Monday before eliminating Jeanine Lehane of Australia, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3.

Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy joined Haillet in the Men's semifinals by turning back Andres Gimeno of Spain, 6-3, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

The remaining quarter - finals will be played Tuesday, with MacKay meeting Italy's Orlando Sirola and Ayala playing Manuel Santana of Spain.

Caseys Tackle Vets In Chair Loop Today

Manager Cecil Grimes' undefeated Veterans of Foreign Wars (3-0) will meet the Knights of Columbus (1-1) in today's feature attraction in the Rocking Chair Softball League at Post Field at 6:15 p. m.

Ritter A. C., which has played only one game to date and lost it, meets the B. P. O. Elks (0-3) at Stitcher Field while the Loyal Order of Moose (2-1) and Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company (0-2) tangle at East Side Field.

The Celanese A. A. (2-0) is idle today.

Roger Craig of the Los Angeles Dodgers missed the 1959 National League earned run title by one inning. He compiled a 2.06 ERA in 153 innings. A pitcher needs 154 innings for recognition in the averages.

LaSalle Visits Allegany For 5th In City Series

Fort Hill To Seek 10th Straight Win In Game At Bruce

The fifth in the annual series of six games that are staged to determine the city baseball championship will be played today when LaSalle High School's Explorers engage the Allegany High Campers at Campobello at 4 p. m.

Fort Hill, winner of four straight city games a year ago is leading the race with a 2-1 record, having split even with LaSalle and beat Allegany in the series opener. Allegany (1-1) has beaten LaSalle (11-7) and lost to Fort Hill (10-0). LaSalle with a 1-2 record can windup with a .500 record by taking the final game today. If the Campers sweep the series the outcome of the city race will hinge on the outcome of the Allegany- Fort Hill contest on May 31.

This Allegany-LaSalle game is also one of four contests in the Allegany County High School League billed for today.

Fort Hill, leading the league with a 10-1 record, will be angling for its 10th straight victory when it faces Bruce High's Bulldogs at Westernport. This is the second of four games on the Bruce schedule this week. Fort Hill won four games last week while LaSalle and Allegany won three each. The Sentinels whipped Bruce 20-0 on April 29.

Allegany trails Fort Hill in the county race with an 8-1 record.

Other games on today's County League schedule are Mt. Savage at Beall and Valley at Flintstone.

The postponed game of May 10 between Bruce and Allegany is rescheduled for Wednesday at 4 p. m. at Campobello.

The LaSalle at Bruce game yesterday was postponed because the playing field at Westernport was unfit for play due to rain earlier in the day.

Bulldogs To Play Moorefield Today

Rain yesterday caused postponement of the West Virginia Region 4 baseball final between the tossers of Martinsburg High School and Moorefield High School at Charles Town.

The game has been reset for today and if the field at Charles Town is still unfit the contest may be shifted to Moorefield. A decision on the site for the game will be made this morning.

Three Children Die

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Three sleeping children were burned to death early Monday when a fierce fire raced through their two-story frame home.

The 15 other persons who occupied the dwelling escaped without injury.

Dead are Robert Buchanan, 6, his two-year-old brother, John, and 11-month-old Barry E. Robinson. All were sleeping in the same room.

A chupatty is an Anglo-Indian word for an unleavened cake of bread.

| Pass | 1 ♣ | Pass | 1 ♠ |
| Pass | 2 NT | Pass | 3 NT |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

Opening lead: Ten of ♥

South, as declarer, put up a creditable performance in today's hand but was helpless against the faultless defense of East and West.

The bidding was reasonable enough. South opened with one club and after North's response he jumped to two no trump. While the textbook requirements for such a rebid is 19 points the South hand falls only microscopically short of the mark and the call is condoned, since South holds 18 high card points and a good five card suit. The two no trump rebid is to be favored in any event to protect South's diamond holding from immediate attack.

West, deciding that declarer was well prepared for a diamond lead, elected to open the ten of hearts. South played low from the dummy intending to let the ten hold the trick. This was part of the campaign to avoid an early lead from East. Declarer of course needed time to develop the club suit.

East was doing some thinking of his own, however. Lacking a card of entry he realized that it was pointless to establish the heart suit and decided to help develop his partner's hand. He therefore put up the queen of hearts which South overtook with the ace and returned the king of clubs.

West was in with the ace and he led back his other heart which was ducked in dummy and East's nine held the trick. He shifted to the four of diamonds and declarer was forced to take the finesse. West captured the queen with his king and returned the three to clear the suit. South proceeded to run the spades, but West doggedly held on to one diamond and the guarded jack of club and declarer was obliged to submit to a one trick set in the end.

Observe that, if East fails to put up the queen of hearts at trick one, declarer can permit the ten of hearts to hold and thereby render the defense completely helpless. East can never gain the lead and declarer either has time to establish the clubs or else gain his ninth trick in the diamonds, if West decides to lead that suit.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Spike Jones telephoned to tell me that he considers Steve Reeves the new teenagers delight. "My children were so insistent I use Reeves on my show," said Spike, "that I went to Joe Levine to see what could be done. Joe told me that Steve has two pictures to make and is now starring in 'Hercules Unchained' in Rome, but if I wanted to go to Rome to film my scene with Steve, I could have him.

"So," said Spike, "if the hill will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet will go to the hill." In other words, Spike takes off for Rome in a couple of weeks to film his sequence with Steve for his Aug. 1 show.

That "hot cat" Louis Prima tells me it's true that he and Keely Smith will produce his life story, "The Cat Has 9 Lives" as a movie—but not with that title and not with Louis. He'll get a male star "prettier than me" to do the emoting, but Louis will be tootin' the trumpet on the sound track—who else could do that as vies planned by the Keelou Corp., well?

This is only one of several mo the name of the Keely-Louis independent setup. On the agenda they also have "The Egghead" and "Take My Hand."

Everyone wondered why Hal Wallis didn't keep Dolores Hart on home base instead of loaning her to Allied Artists for "The Plunderers." Hal holds her contract and Dolores was a hit in "Pleasure of His Company" on Broadway. When I talked with Wallis he said he's been waiting for something special for her—and he has it in "Summer and Smoke." The pretty Hart girl will have the second lead with Geraldine Page in this Tennessee Williams story.

Hal also told me that Michael Curtiz has a bid in for Dolores for the femme lead in "The Life of St. Francis of Assisi." If the shooting schedules don't conflict, Hal told me, "Dolores may be able to do both pictures."

Maggie Rennie returned to London Saturday after settling her suit for increased alimony against Michael Rennie out of court. She told her attorney David Licht that money was not that important to her to drag in the names of their friends. Michael then obtained an uncontested divorce without involving anyone.

Mrs. Rennie was in such a highly nervous state that, she had to be given sedatives to calm her. Both sides threatened to name names, and it's just as well the case didn't come to court. Maggie's old friends stood by her, and of course Mike had his supporters, too.

Eve Arden tells me that she goes into Mt. Sinai Hospital for one week for treatment of a pinched nerve. "Then Brooks and I open in Toronto, Canada, June 27, at a summer theater in 'Goodbye Charlie', and I want to be in perfect health," said Eve. "In addition to therapy, I'll get a good rest," she said.

Eve and her husband, Brooks West, met while doing a play together and they're looking forward to the summer stock engagement in Canada.

The busiest young man I know is Johnny Mathis. He recorded in New York last week and is doing another this week. I talked to Helen Noga, his manager, who flew here for her granddaughter's eighth birthday and returns to New York over the weekend.

She said Johnny opens at the Greek Theatre Sept. 5 and that Hermes Pan is doing the choreography. "Johnny can't wait to get back to California to enjoy the sunshine, play tennis, swim and enjoy his home here," she said. Johnny shares a beautiful home in Beverly Hills with Helen and her husband.

School Bus, Truck Collide

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) —Five children escaped injury Monday when their school bus collided with a tractor-trailer on U.S. 40 about one-half mile south of here.

The bus driver, Charles Taylor of Havre de Grace, was taken to Harford Memorial Hospital for examination of a reported back injury.

State Police said the bus was struck in the rear by a truck driven by Michael Trezza of Baltimore. Trezza was uninjured.

Market Declines First Time In Nine Sessions

NEW YORK (UPI) —Selling in blue chip industrials and many of the recently-favored defense issues drove stock prices lower for the first time in nine sessions Monday.

The market lacked a proper stimulant to keep the eight-day rally alive. The corporate news picture generally favored the bears.

Selling spread to most sections of the list following report of the American Iron & Steel Institute that steel operations this week were expected to drop to the lowest level for any normal week since mid-September, 1958.

The decline also bore out what brokers had said — that postponement of the Berlin showdown over the weekend would trigger profit-taking in some of the recently strong defense groups and cause the general list to falter.

Trading fell on the decline to 2,530,000 shares from 3,170,000 shares on Friday. A total of 1,203 issues appeared on the tape, and of these 505 declined, 36 to new lows, and 489 advanced, with 41 to new highs.

Industrials closed at 623.66 off 1.58 in their average. The decline interrupted an advance that saw the group run up more than 20 points in the last eight sessions.

B&O Pledges Cooperation On Crossings

Will Notify Police If Blocking Occurs

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming has been assured that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will make every effort to hold crossing blockages to a minimum.

The pledge was made by C. E. Bertrand, general manager of the B & O's Eastern Region, who said that where unavoidable blocking does occur in the future, the railroad will make every effort to notify the Police Department of such blocking.

Instructions have been issued, Mr. Bertrand said, "to alert our personnel of their duty in this regard."

He said R. J. Cannon, division superintendent, had called to his attention the action taken by Mr. Fleming to withdraw the four warrants against the B & O charging unlawful blocking of certain crossings in Cumberland.

"This company," he said, "is grateful for the dismissal of these charges."

Mr. Bertrand said the Baltimore and Ohio is interested in being a good neighbor and that "the fine cooperation shown by you gives us added incentive to do likewise."

The charges against the B & O were dropped a week ago after city officials met with Mr. Cannon and representatives of the men who work in the Cumberland terminal.

A number of operating rules designed to minimize blocking of the Baltimore Street crossing were agreed upon.

Included were plans for moving freights over the crossing as quickly as possible, for clearing traffic when long trains must be made up in two sections, that shifters will wait until traffic clears when pulling over the crossing after it has been blocked and for making air and inspection tests before freights cross Harrison Street.

German Exchange Youth Welcomed

Miss Minna Margarete Hold, right, 24-year-old farm social worker of Strahlshauser Eschinge-West in Germany, is being welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. James Robison and family, Mt. Savage, where she will visit three weeks before going to other farm areas of Maryland to learn the American way of life. In the background besides Mr. and Mrs. Robison is James Arnold, assistant farm agent of Allegany County, who introduced her to the family. In the foreground are James J., John, Mary Susan and Margaret Robison. When she caught a glimpse of Western Maryland's mountains and small farms, Miss Hold felt at home since terrain in her homeland is similar. Her trip here is made possible through the International Farm Youth Exchange. She will visit the Iowa corn belt and Washington, D. C. before returning home.

Jury Trial Set Today

Two related damage suits, seeking a total of $26,000, are scheduled to be heard by a jury today in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The cases, resulting from an automobile accident on the Potomac River bridge at Hancock, were filed originally in Washington County Circuit Court but were moved here on order of Associate Judge D. K. McLaughlin.

Mrs. Alma G. Dyer, through Attorney Ernest V. Wachs of Hagerstown, brought suit for $25,000 against Lionel Roy Smith. Mrs. Dyer contends that she sustained severe injuries to her body, right shoulder, both legs, head and face on or about April 19, 1959, when her automobile was struck from the rear while she was driving toward Hancock on U. S. Route 522 while still on the West Virginia portion of the bridge.

Her 18-year-old daughter, Ina Mae Dyer, by her father and next friend, John W. Dyer, and Mr. Dyer individually brought the second suit for $1,000 against Mr. Smith. The girl, who was a passenger in the car with her mother, contends that she sustained severe back injuries which cost her father a great deal in hospital and medical expenses.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley of Oakland will preside at the trial.

Local Flying Association Plans Aerial Rally June 12

An aerial rally will be held at the Cumberland Municipal Airport at Wiley Ford on Sunday afternoon, June 12 by the Cumberland Flying Association which made plans during a recent meeting at the airport.

George Nash, special activities chairman, will be in charge of the rally. He said the objective is to go over a triangular course with each pilot predicting his own performance.

The pilot will follow through accordingly with plane limitations taken into consideration. An entry fee will be required of each pilot and observer flying in the rally.

The fees will go toward the purchase of useful prizes. The course selected would require a landing on one spot and locating and flying over another distinct point.

The rally, he said, will require about an hour of flying time. The committee appointed to check planes from specified points include Edward Robeson, Eugene Light, Mrs. Helene Knippenberg, and Mrs. Bruce Dawson.

Also being planned by the association is a soaring meet the weekend on August 6. The met will be sanctioned by the Mid-Atlantic Soaring Association. Newsletters are being mailed to association members giving more details on the two activities. At the recent meeting two films were shown.

Edward Robeson was named social chairman for an outdoor weiner roast at 7:30 p. m. June 16 a highlight of the next meeting.

An informal spot landing contest will be held. Pilots will attempt to come the closest to a circle on the field when they alight in their planes.

Three Draw Sentences In Check Case

Fourth Youthful Defendant Freed

Three of the four young persons tried yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court on fradulent check charges were found guilty by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley and sentenced to state penal institutions.

Hugh J. McMillan, 18, of Central YMCA, who was found guilty on three charges was sentenced to two years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males on each count with the stipulation the sentences run concurrently.

Sarah Catherine Riggleman, 19, of 221 Davidson Street, found guilty of forging two of three checks was sentenced to two years in Maryland State Reformatory for Women on each of the charges. The sentences are concurrent.

Tommy Lee Riggleman, 21, 133 Bedford Street, (no relation to Sarah C. Riggleman), charged with aiding and assisting in the making, forging and uttering of two of the checks, was sentenced to the Maryland House of Correction on each count with the terms to run concurrent.

Found Not Guilty

Daniel Eugene Jones, 20, of 332 North Mechanic Street, accused of aiding and assisting in the making and forging and uttering of one of the checks, was found not guilty by Judge Fraley.

The trial lasted about an hour and 20 minutes and prior to the opening of the trial the four defendants were taken from the county jail to the court room by Deputy Sheriff George Staup.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, presented the state's case on criminal information filed in court last Wednesday.

Edward J. Ryan was court-appointed counsel for McMillan and Riggleman. Miss Riggleman and Jones were represented by Fred H. Anderson, who also was court-appointed.

Pleas of guilty were entered for McMillan and Miss Riggleman and pleas of not guilty were entered for the other two accused.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, read a statement given by McMillan in the presence of the other three defendants after they were taken to the county jail following their arrest.

McMillan was charged on three counts involving fradulent checks cashed April 21, 23, and 25 involving a total of $578.50; Miss Riggleman with forging two checks, one for $200 on April 21 and a second for $154.80 on April 23.

Confinement Ordered

In view of McMillan's past record, Judge Fraley said he "hasn't appeared to have learned anything" insofar as the law is concerned and since forgery is such a serious offense the only thing to do is to place him in confinement.

McMillan was advised by the judge to go straight and become a useful, law abiding citizen after serving his time in the penal institution.

In sentencing Miss Riggleman, he cited her past police record and said that he is a firm believer in probation but is not in favor of continuous probation. It may do her some good to have her confined, he pointed out.

This morning Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein will take Riggleman and McMillan to the penal institutions. Miss Riggleman will be taken to the reformatory at a later date, the sheriff said.

Suit Is Filed For Property College Needs

Condemnation Action Started

Two Frostburg residents are defendants in a condemnation suit filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Maryland school officials who are seeking a tract of land for use in the expansion program at Frostburg State Teachers College.

The suit was filed by Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, the State Board of Education and Board of Trustees for State Teachers Colleges against Emerson E. Thomas and Nellie K. Thomas, both of 136 Bowery Street in Frostburg.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley has signed an order requiring the defendants to answer the petition within 15 days to show cause why the property should not be condemned.

The plaintiffs charged with acquisition of property for the college in Frostburg, find it necessary to acquire Lots 1, 2, 3, and 4 of the subdivision of the George H. Wittig property on Park Avenue near the intersection of that avenue and Midlothian Road.

The lots described in the suit are improved by two gasoline pumps and a small 20 by 25 feet one-story frame building used in connection with the gasoline station business.

The land is required for the construction of a dormitory and lies adjacent to the property occupied by the college. The petitioners are unable to reach agreement to purchase the defendant's property. They claim the defendants demand "excessive and unreasonable."

Tidal Waves Kill At Least 26 In Hawaii

Quake-Born Deluge Slams Into Port City

Dozens Missing As Hilo Shattered By Tons Of Water

HONOLULU (AP) — Four tidal waves, spawned in the vast Pacific by Chile's destructive earthquakes, shattered downtown Hilo Monday.

Twenty-six persons were reported killed and police said dozens were missing in Hawaii's second largest city.

Damage in the wrecked waterfront and business sections was expected to exceed 25 million dollars in the port city of 26,000 on the Island of Hawaii.

Hospitals reported 51 injured.

Other islands in the Hawaiian chain were buffeted by the quake-born seismic sea waves, but damage was slight compared to the toll in Hilo.

All the island state's population was alerted by siren warnings more than three hours before the first wave hit at 12:55 a.m. HST (5:25 a.m. EST).

Thousands Flee

The warning system, installed after a disastrous 1946 seismic wave killed 159 persons in Hilo and other Hawaii areas, warned thousands to move out of low lying areas.

These included hundreds of guests in Waikiki Beach hotels in Honolulu. Water surged through the main floors of the plush Waikiki hotels and briefly flooded Kalakaua avenue, the Honolulu resort district's main street.

The Coast Guard rescued six persons from a cabin cruiser that broke up on the rocky coast of Kauai Island, northernmost in the island chain.

The massive wave force, generated by continuing earthquake shocks in Chile which killed an officially counted 252 in that South American country, ranged across the world's largest ocean from New Zealand to the California coast.

Emergency Declared

William F. Quinn, Hawaii's governor, declared a state of emergency and flew from Honolulu to Hilo to take personal charge in the disaster area.

Screams for help rose from demolished waterfront hotels in Hilo.

The biggest of the four waves slamming into Hilo crested at 12 to 15 feet above the harbor's normal tide mark.

This wave, third in the series and hitting at 1:05 a.m. HST (6:05 a.m. EST) smashed over the waterfront. It knocked down almost every building in the Waikea district.

The wave's tons of water crushed every structure on the seaward side of Kamehameha avenue, Hilo's main street One building was tossed into the middle of the street, blocking it off.

Ike's Summit Report Set Tomorrow

President Calls Unusual Meeting Of NSC For Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has set Wednesday night as the time for his report to the people on the collapse of the summit conference.

In apparent preparation Monday for a major effort, he called an unusual meeting of the National Security Council, his top level strategy board, for Tuesday.

He also kept his office calendar otherwise free of appointments and passed up the usual Wednesday news conference.

Ike Confers With Herter

Eisenhower is expected to give his reasons for the failure of the big power meeting at Paris, where he was denounced by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and discuss what may lie ahead in the cold war.

Eisenhower spent part of Monday on the Wednesday night report, which will be carried over radio and TV networks.

He conferred with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and with White House aides who help draft his speeches.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty was asked whether the calling of the Security Council meeting for Tuesday had anything to do with Eisenhower's plans to report on the summit fiasco. He replied: "While I never report on NSC discussions, I would assume that would at least be discussed."

Address Set For 8 DST

The Security Council, which usually meets on Thursday mornings, is composed of the President, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Herter, Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Director Leo A. Hoegh of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

The White House said Eisenhower will speak for 30 minutes Wednesday night beginning at 8 o'clock Eastern Daylight Time. The radio networks and the ABC and CBS television networks will carry the address at the time. NBC-TV will repeat it at 10 p.m. EDT.

Lodge Answers Soviet Charges

This was the scene in the United Nations Security Council last evening as U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge answered Russia's demand that the U. S. be condemned as an aggressor for aerial spying on Soviet territory. Around the table are Andrei Gromyko, of Russia, foreground; Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon; Lodge; Dr. Mario Amadeo, of Argentina; U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold; Sir Claude Corea, Ceylon, U. ## Lodge Blasts Russ Charge As Fallacious

Gromyko Demands That U.N. Condemn U.S. As Aggressor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States accused the Soviet Union Monday night of maintaining a vast spy network while trying to curb U.S. efforts to guard against surprise Communist attack.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made the charge in the U.N. Security Council.

He was replying to a demand from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that the United States be condemned as an aggressor for aerial spying on Soviet territory. Gromyko warned that such action ran the risk of kindling the flames of World War III.

Unless immediate action is taken by the U.N., Gromyko asserted, "grave consequences" could result.

Lodge said that the Soviets have thousands of spies everywhere, and that since the death of Stalin 360 actually had been convicted in the free world.

"If it ever should be accepted that the Soviet Union can maintain a double standard while they have thousands of spies everywhere. . . then the free world would surely be in peculiar danger," Lodge asserted.

Galleries Jammed

He spoke for only 15 minutes in comparison to an hour-long speech by Gromyko. The galleries in the Council chamber were jammed with both diplomats and ordinary spectators.

Gromyko denounced President Eisenhower and accused the United States of perfidy comparable to that of Japanese diplomats in Washington just prior to the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

He called on the Council not only to condemn the United States as an aggressor for aerial spying, but also to request that the United States put an end to such flights.

But Lodge denied that the United States had commied any aggressive acts "against the Soviet Union or any other country, either through its Air Force or through any other agency of the U.S. government."

Lodge named a dozen spies he said were arrested in the United States since the death of Stalin.

He said the United States in addition to naming spies could also bring up the presence of a Soviet vessel off Long Island's Montauk Point a few weeks ago that was "deliberately interfering with operations of the U.S. Navy."

U.S. Bids For Open Skies Pact

He made these additional points:

1. The United States has suspended spy flights similar to the U2 spy plane downed over the Soviet Union last May 1 and the free world could only speculate why the Soviet Union sought to bring up the matter in the United Nations.

2. The United States is prepared to negotiate an open skies treaty with the Soviet Union that would obviate forever any need for attempts at aerial espionage by any nation.

"At an appropriate time we intend to make proposals to get at the heart of the matter and we hope our proposals will prove constructive," he added.

He denied the Soviet charges as fallacious and said the United States was glad of the chance to air the issues involved in the Council.

Diplomats said there was virtually no chance of the Soviet Union getting a resolution con-

375 Holiday Auto Deaths Forecast

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Safety Council predicted Monday that 375 persons would be killed on the nation's highways this Memorial Day weekend and a possible 13,000 others injured.

"It is tragically ironic to honor the dead by killing and injuring the living," a council spokesman said.

The council said it expected just about every one of the nation's 73 million autos to be driven at least some time during the Memorial Day holiday.

Chilean Quake Toll Increased By Avalanche

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A death-dealing avalanche touched off on a live volcano slope by new earth convulsions added Monday to Chile's prolonged seize of quake and tidal wave woes. The nine reported killed by the avalanche ran Chile's official death toll over the weekend to 308.

The Interior Ministry said the Osorno volcano itself did not erupt but that tons of rocks were shaken loose from its peak, roaring down on the valley.

The volcano rears up on the east side of Lake Llanquihue, 600 miles south of Santiago and a few miles from Puerto Montt, where 30 residents were killed Sunday in a giant tidal wave.

Besides the dead in the series of disasters, 130 were missing and 1,600 injured. Thousands were homeless.

Hardest hit Sunday along with Puerto Montt were the towns of Ancud and Valdivia.

The Interior Ministry told reporters it would no longer announce total casualty figures in order not to alarm the people. This move indicated the actual toll might be much greater than what has been announced.

The damage in wrecked buildings, disrupted roads and other losses throughout nine central and southern provinces totaled millions of dollars.

Tidal waves which battered the Chilean coast early Sunday night, sweeping away 130 persons to probable death at sea, had spread thousands of miles into the Pacific. Awesome breakers and freak currents pounded the shores of such distant lands as New Zealand, Hawaii and California.

While aid sped to Chile from her Latin-American neighbors and U.S. bases in the Panama Canal Zone, seismograph recording instruments picked up the continuing earth shocks through the night.

The students, growing more aggressive in their outbursts, hurled bricks and stones into the ranks of an estimated 3,000 officers outside Kishi's barricaded official residence.

Club-wielding officers broke up the crowd 40 minutes later. Authorities said 88 police were injured, 14 seriously, and about 40 students were hurt.

Many of the students later joined various left-wing groups in snake dance demonstrations through the streets. Chanting anti-government slogans and singing the Communist Internationale, the youths were demanding dissolution of Parliament and the immediate resignation of Kishi and his pro-West Cabinet.

Ike Move Delays Switcher Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower acted Monday to head off a threatened strike by the Switchmen's Union against 18 railroads in the West and Midwest.

The President issued an order under the Railway Labor Act creating an emergency board to study the dispute. His action delayed any strike for 60 days.

Involved are 18 roads represented by the Western Carriers' Conference Committee who have been involved in a contract dispute with the Switchmen's Union of North America.

The dispute involves wages and changes in the so-called work rules which govern the activity of the employes.

The union had proposed wage increases and certain rules changes. The railroads had countered with proposed wage decreases and different changes in the rules. The union conducted a vote in which its members elected to strike.

Senators Engage In Shouting Match Over Paris Debacle

Scott Denies Calling Kennedy Appeaser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) strode into the Senate Monday night and told a Republican critic: "I do not have to purge myself of the suspicion of being an appeaser."

Kennedy, pacesetting candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, arrived in the chamber several hours after the Senate's country ahead of politics truce exploded in bitter partisan charge and countercharge.

During the hot word fight, Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) had declared Kennedy and Adlai E. Stevenson should be summoned before congressional investigators "to relieve themselves of the gross suspicion of appeasement" growing out of their criticisms of Eisenhower administration policies leading up to the summit collapse last week.

When Kennedy arrived he told Scott:

"I do not have to purge myself of the suspicion of being an appeaser. I do not advocate a policy that would weaken the United States.

"I'm sure the senator (Scott) can't believe I'm an appeaser."

Scott denied calling Kennedy an appeaser.

"I am willing to abide by the senator's statement," Scott said. "I hope that will satisfy the sensitivity of the senator."

Kennedy replied that this was a "somewhat grudging" admission.

The Massachusetts senator contended Scott had taken out of context a statement Kennedy made in a campaign speech in Portland, Ore.

Kennedy said that when he was asked by a student what he would have done if he had been in Eisenhower's place at Paris, he replied that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had placed two conditions on his willingness to hold the conference.

One of these was that Eisenhower apologize for the plane incident, Kennedy said. He recalled he told his audience he thought "this might have been possible to do."

But Kennedy said he added in almost the same sentence that if Khrushchev had merely asked the President to express regret "that would have been a more reasonable term."

Kennedy declared Scott was unfair in attacking him and Stevenson for statements made about the summit conference blowup.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who had touched off the debate earlier, asked if Kennedy thought he had been unfair to him.

"The senator from Illinois did not treat me unfairly," Kennedy replied crisply. "The senator from Pennsylvania did."

Other Democrats warned the Republicans they shouldn't try to picture the summit collapse as a great victory.

Amid the roaring oratory — which may well be repeated in the election campaigns ahead —there were echoes of soft-on-communism charges that figured prominently in the past two presidential battles.

Some Republicans objected to impending Senate investigations of the U2 spy plane incident and other factors that led to the breakdown of the summit talks a week ago. Key Democrats promised a nonpolitical inquiry, and they got some GOP support.

In the wake of the nearly three-hour debate, Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) announced he expects Secretary of State Christian A. Herter to appear before

Reds Promise Statement On Nine Captives

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet and East German sources promised Monday there will be a statement on the nine Americans — one a woman — whose Copenhagen-Hamburg flight Friday landed them in Soviet captivity.

The statement may come Tuesday. The Communist informants declined to say exactly when or even who would make it. There was no hint what bearing the statement might have on the captives' future.

The landing of a U.S. Air Force C47 transport in Communist East Germany put the Americans in Soviet hands. The Soviets announced the plane was forced down by the Soviet military.

The United States is still awaiting a reply from Col. Gen. I. I. Yakubovsky, commander of Soviet forces in East Germany, to a request Saturday from Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, U.S. Army commander in Europe, for immediate release of the Americans and the plane.

Peasants Get Land

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq began distributing former royal family lands to peasants Monday

Radio Baghdad said deeds on 17,000 acres were distributed to 1,761 persons who will form 10 model villages.

The royal family—wiped out in the 1958 revolution—owned 56,000 acres. The radio said the rest of the royal land will be distributed soon.

Scores Dead And Missing In Japanese Tidal Waves

TOKYO (AP) — Tidal waves loosed by Chile's earthquakes smashed into sleeping Japan at dawn Tuesday, causing death and destruction.

The Japan Broadcasting Corp. reported 28 persons were dead, 34 injured and 62 missing after a series of waves as high as 20 feet flooded villages along the Pacific coast of Honshu and Hokkaido islands.

Police, who had no advance warning of the tidal disturbance, confirmed reports of 6 dead, 6 missing and 21 injured.

Japan Broadcasting Corp. said 29,000 houses were flooded, 1,600 of them damaged or washed away and 415 fishing boats torn from their moorings. The first series of waves struck Hokkaido, in the north.

Wave Hits Calif. Town

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (AP) —A tidal wave swept into Crescent City at 12:20 p. m. Monday, pushing water for three blocks into the town.

Police reported three persons were hurt. There was no word of fatal injuries.

Crescent City is near the California-Oregon border.

Two fishing vessels were swamped and 30 others damaged. Jetties and other harbor installations were damaged.

TV Emmy Nominations Set Stage For Unusual Races

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will it be another year with Emmy for Fred Astaire? That possibility appeared Monday with the nominations for the 1959-60 TV Academy Awards.

Last year, "An Evening With Fred Astaire" danced off with nine gold statuettes in various divisions. He can't repeat that record because the Emmy categories have been pared.

But Fred's again in the running for best musical-variety performance, competing with Harry Belafonte and Dinah Shore.

"Another Evening With Fred Astaire" also drew a nomination as best variety program. It will be in a race with the Dinah Shore Show, Fabulous Fifties, Garry Moore Show and Tonight with Belafonte. In reducing the number of categories, the Academy has created the somewhat illogical competition of single specials against weekly shows.

Another unusual race is in the best series actor division. It is a three-way affair between Westerner Richard Boone (Have Gun, Will Travel), sleuth Raymond Burr (Perry Mason) and crime-buster Robert Stack (The Untouchables).

The best series actress contest demonstrates TV's reliance on standard movie names. The competitors: Donna Reed, Jane Wyatt (Father Knows Best) and Loretta Young.

The awards will be handed out on an NBC special June 20. Other major nominations follow:

Art Carney Special—VIP; Danny Thomas Show; Father Knows Best; Jack Benny Show; Red Skelton Show.

Outstanding achievement in drama:

Ethan Frome; The Moon and Sixpence; Playhouse 90; The Turn of the Screw; The Untouchables.

Outstanding achievement in news:

Chet Huntley Reporting; Douglas Edwards With the News; Huntley-Brinkley Report; Journey to Understanding; Khrushchev's Arrival, Appearance at National Press Club, Speech to the Nation —Journey to Understanding.

Outstanding achievement in public affairs and education:

Meet the Press: The Population Explosion, CBS Reports; Small World; Twentieth Century; Winter Olympics-CBS.

Outstanding achievement in children's programming:

Captain Kangaroo; Huckleberry Hound; Lassie; Quick Draw McGraw; Watch Mr. Wizard.

Outstanding achievement in music:

Bell Telephone Hour? Green Pastures; Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic; Music of Gershwin-Bell Telephone Hour; Young People's Concerts—Leonard Bernstein.

Oustanding single performance by an actor:

Lee J. Cobb—Project Immortality; Alec Guinness—The Wicked Scheme of Jebal Deeks; Laurence Olivier—The Moon and Sixpence.

Ingrid Bergman—The Turn of the Screw; Julie Harris-Ethan Frome; Theresa Wright—Margaret Bourke-White Story. Breck Sunday Showcase.

Long-Sought Nazi War Criminal Seized In Israel

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Adolf Eichmann, the most wanted Nazi war criminal still at large, has been captured and will stand trial in Israel, Premier David Ben-Gurion announced Monday.

Bene-Gurion charged in the Knesst (Parliament) that Eichmann and other Nazi leaders were responsible for "the extermination of six million Jews of Europe."

The Premier told the startled Knesset—which had no previous inkling the long manhunt was over —that Eichmann—now 54—had recently been seized by Israel security forces.

"Adolf Eichmann is already under arrest in Israel," Ben-Gurion said, "and will shortly be placed on trial in Israel under terms of Israel's law for the trial of Nazis and their collaborators."

The Premier gave no details of the arrest of the man who was a top aide of Heinrich Himmler, boss of the dread Nazi secret police or Gestapo.

Eichmann vanished from sight in the days when Hitler's Reich was crumbling under Allied blows. A lieutenant colonel in the SS

He was reported thereafter in several Latin-American countries, in Australia, in Switzerland and last October in Kuwait, the British protectorate in the Middle East. The British hunted for him in vain.

West Germany also wanted him. A warrant for murder had been circulated for Eichmann for years. Last year, German authorities dealing with war crimes got a report he might be in Israel and asked Israeli officials to look for him.

Du Pont-GM Stock Decision Will Be Reviewed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed Monday to review a decision which held that the Du Pont company could continue to own its three-billion-dollar share of General Motors Corp.

The decision, which was appealed by the government, was handed down by U.S. Dist. Judge Walter J. La Buy in Chicago. He held that the Du Pont Co., could retain its 63 million shares in General Motors, but would have to pass voting rights on to Du Pont stockholders.

Du Pont holdings amount to about 23 per cent of GM's outstanding stock.

The federal government, through the Justice Department antitrust division, has been trying for 11 years to compel Du Pont to divest itself of GM holdings.

Justices Tom C. Clark and John M. Harlan disqualified themselves from the case.

In other major actions Monday the court:

1. Upheld, on a 5-4 vote, a secret contempt of court procedure in which a New Yorker received a one-year jail sentence.

Justice Felix Frankfurther, who spoke for the majority, said no objection was made by Morry Levine or his attorney to the public being excluded from the court room of U.S. Dist. Judge Richard H. Levet.

Levine was punished for refusing to answer grand jury questions in an investigation dealing with motor carrier sections of the Interstate Commerce Act.

2. Agreed to pass on validity of Connecticut's birth control laws.

The laws, which prohibit the use of contraceptives and drugs and make it illegal for physicians to prescribe them, have been involved in numerous state court tests since their passage in 1879. This is the first time their constitutionality has been challenged before the Supreme Court.

Body Of Missing Boat Captain Washed Ashore

CHESAPEAKE BEACH, Md. (AP)—The body of a 52-year-old boat captain, missing since he disappeared from a motor vessel in Chesapeake Bay May 1, washed ashore Monday.

The body of Leon Webster, of Cambridge, was found at Breeze Point, about seven miles south of this Calvert County town. Dr. Hugh H. Ward, deputy medical examiner, ruled the death was caused by drowning.

Webster apparently fell from the 200-ton vessel, Betty Conway, about five miles north of Cove Point, south of Tilghman Island. The boat was en route from Baltimore to Laurel, Del., with a load of fertilizer.

Howard M. (Buck) Sherman Sr. of Cambridge, owner of the boat, reported that Webster disappeared after he left the pilot house about 11 a. m. on May 1, and went to the lower deck for a drink of water.

Webster was married and the father of nine children.

HST Says Adlai Would Be Flop In White House

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman says he concluded in 1956 that Adlai E. Stevenson would be "ineffectual as a president" because of indecisiveness.

Truman, writing in Look magazine, said he also felt Stevenson was "uncertain of himself and remote from the people."

Stevenson, he said further, brought about a period of "confusion, drift and factionalism" in the Democratic party by not exercising party leadership after his 1952 defeat by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He also said Stevenson's 1952 campaign was not conducted on the Democratic administration record and cost the party three or four million votes.

State's Plush New Yacht Ties Up At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The recently acquired Maryland yacht Sea Level has arrived in Annapolis to begin her new duties as a cruise ship for the Tidewater Fisheries Department and the state government.

Gov. Tawes and Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein took the first trip on her in Maryland waters, arriving from Norfolk with the yacht Sunday night.

It went on public view Monday at the state pier, where the plush 118-foot yacht occupies only a part of the space once taken up by the Potomac, the 165-foot former Coast Guard cutter and Presidential yacht of Franklin Roosevelt which the state acquired after World War II and recently sold.

The Sea Level, a striking royal blue and white in color, presents none of the white hulled Potomac's warship traits. Formerly used by West Indies Fruit Co. executives, she is plushly furnished from stem to stern.

On the main deck are a huge living room with elegant furnishings, a smaller dining room, kitchen and food storage facilities and an after deck for lounging. Up forward and just beneath the pilot house is a glassed-in observation lounge.

Below deck there are five staterooms with a total of 10 permanently installed bunks for sleeping. Baths adjoin the staterooms. Thick carpeting extends throughout the main living and sleeping quarters.

Capt. John Conway, who remained as skipper of the new yacht after the Potomac was sold, said the yacht handled well in rough water encountered on the trip from Florida and should be "much more economical" to operate than was the Potomac.

He said it is in good condition following repairs to a loose steering cable which caused it to go aground on a mud bank in the inland waterway after leaving Palm Beach, Fla.

demning the United States through the council.

In an attempt to ease tension in the wake of the sharp U.S.-Soviet exchange, four of the smaller nations on the council introduced a resolution calling for early resumpton of East-West negotiations on disarmament and other big issues.

The resolution was worked out on the initiative of Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon, president of the council for May. He opened the meeting with a plea that the council take up the issues in an atmosphere of "calm, detachment, restraint and dignity." Argentina, Ecuador, and Tunisia joined Ceylon in the move.

It noted with regret that the world's hopes had been dashed for a successful summit meeting in Paris. It said it is now necessary to "make every effort to restore and strengthen international goodwill and confidence."

The resolution urged the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—the summit participants — "to resume discussions as soon as possible" and to avail themselves of the assistance of the Security Council and other appropriate U.N. organs.

After hearing Lodge and Gromyko the council adjourned until 3 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Senators Engage

his Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Friday, to discuss incidents leading up to the summit breakdown.

The match was lighted by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. He rose in the Senate to say Adlai E. Stevenson may have planted dynamite under the East-West talks by suggesting in advance a soft approach to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

As backing for his charge, Dirksen cited an interview a Paris newspaper purportedly had with Stevenson on the eve of the summit meeting — an interview in which Dirksen said Stevenson favored concessions on Berlin, among other things.

This interview has been repudiated by Stevenson, his party's presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, and a possible nominee again this year. Monday, he acknowledged talking with a French reporter, but said "What he reports me as saying have never been my views and are not my views today."

Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md) challenged the Democrats either to take impeachment action against Eisenhower for his intelligence and summit policies "or stop this ridiculous talk against the President."

Dirksen and Butler belabored Stevenson for saying in a Chicago speech last week that the Eisenhower administration — through the spy plane incident — had furnished Khrushchev a crowbar with which to wreck the summit talks.

"Thank you for employing such wonderful people"

The above words, which we value highly, are in a letter received from a young college coed. The letter goes on to say that she lost her wallet while running an errand for her family. She rushed back to the store, looked everywhere, but had no luck in finding it. Finally, sure that she would never get the wallet back, she started home feeling pretty down in the dumps.

But at almost that very minute the doorbell rang at her house and a voice said "Excuse me, I think this wallet I found belongs to someone who lives here." The voice belonged to a C & P installer, and the result was a greatly relieved young lady.

In itself this is a small thing—what any good neighbor would do. And we're glad the desire to be of help is so natural with telephone people. Whether it's a service representative taking a real interest in your problem, an operator making an extra effort, or an installer returning a lost wallet—the spirit of service is the same.

Davis To Head Separate AP West Va. Bureau

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press is establishing a separate bureau to cover West Virginia with headquarters in Charleston. General Manager Frank J. Starzel announced Monday.

Jack F. Davis news editor of the Baltimore AP bureau since January 1956, has been named chief of bureau, effective June 26.

West Virginia has been served through the Baltimore bureau in conjunction with Maryland for several years. Growth of news and Associated Press interests in the state, however, made establishment of full bureau in Charleston necessary.

Davis, 40, joined The Associated Press staff in Baltimore in November, 1947. He was transferred to New York in May, 1953, as an administrative assistant in the General Office. He returned to Baltimore three years later. Davis is married and has four children.

The effective date of his appointment in Charleston is June 26.

As chief of bureau, Davis will succeed Max Fullerton, who was appointed chief of bureau in Charleston in July, 1936. Fullerton was transferred to Baltimore in December, 1945, as chief of bureau for Maryland and West Virginia. He will continue as chief of bureau in Baltimore.

In handling West Virginia operations, Davis also will succeed Harry W. Ball, correspondent in Charleston for almost 15 years. Ball was transferred May 15 to Harrisburg as correspondent in the Pennsylvania capital bureau.

The general manager also announced the appointment of H.J. Ramey of Huntington as traffic bureau chief for West Virginia, with headquarters in Charleston. Ramey, a veteran of 36 years in AP service, formerly was traffic chief in Baltimore and Pittsburgh. He returned to West Virginia in 1935 and has operated from Charleston or Huntington since that time. Ramey will succeed T. Stanley Smith of Baltimore, traffic bureau chief for the two states since 1953. Smith continues as traffic chief in Baltimore.

Sailor Found Dead

SAINT NAZAIRE, France (UPI)—An American sailor missing since Saturday has been found dead, the apparent victim of an assault, police reported Monday.

Police identified him only as John W. Carr, 32, of the U.S. Hurricane.

They said a roll of French francs was found in his pockets but his passport was missing.

In recent weeks the bodies of an American ship's officer, a German sailor and a Norwegian sailor have been found in similar circumstances.

Intruder Forces Physician's Son To Give Him Dope

BALTIMORE (AP) — The son of a doctor told police a stranger came into his father's office and forced the youth to give him some shots of dope.

Thomas N. Carey Jr., 20, said the man knocked him over, causing a head cut when Carey's head struck a bookcase.

Carey related the man entered the office Sunday night, threatening to make trouble if he didn't get some "shots." The doctor's son injected six cc's of demerol into the arm of the man, who became drowsy.

Carey said as he picked up a phone to call police the man leaped and knocked him down. Carey suffered a head wound. The stranger had fled when Carey came to a half hour later.

Tawes Facing Minor Surgery

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes will enter a Baltimore hospital this week for a minor intestinal operation.

"Don't write a story that I'm going in there to die," Tawes said. "I'm in good health. I don't have an ache or pain."

Dr. Daniel Wilfson, the governor's personal physician, said a "benign polyp" will be removed from his large intestine on Friday.

The governor will enter University Hospital Thursday for an expected stay of 10 days. His office said appointments would be canceled through June 6, including his scheduled appearance at the University of Maryland commencement on June 4.

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — An Episcopalian rector en route to his Virginia home from a Florida vacation was killed and his wife injured when their car wrecked 10 miles south of here Sunday.

The victim was the Rev. Paul L. Powles, 65, rector of the Markham, Va. Episcopal Church and a native of Hagerstown, Md.

Mrs. Powles was in serious condition, suffering multiple fractures and abrasions.

Council Tables Request To Waive Cost Of Stand

The city yesterday tabled for one week a request from the Chamber of Commerce that it waive cost for erecting and disassembling the reviewing stand on Baltimore Street for the Sports CARnival parade.

Street Commissioner John J. Long who said the city "just doesn't go around erecting reviewing stands," said he had understood that the Sports CARnival group would pay labor costs in connection with erecting the stand.

The city contributed men, time and materials, taking its men off street work in order to do the job, he said.

Long said he has a letter and also informed officials by phone that the labor cost must be paid.

"I don't think asking for payment for labor is too much," he said.

Long said he had told the celebration officials on the phone that the city was not waiving labor costs and that all concerned should "play according to the rules."

In bid action yesterday, Mayor J. Edwin Keech was authorized to advertise for bids for a pickup truck, with trade-in, for the Flood Maintenance Department.

Commissioner G. Ray Light was authorized to advertise for 16 screens for installation at the gate house at Lake Gordon Dam. Present wood screens are deteriorating, Light said.

All bids for painting the Street Department warehouse on Valley Street were rejected, on recommendation of Long who will readvertise.

Judge Acquits Student In Road Death

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley yesterday issued a directed motion declaring Philip M. Davidson, 16, of LaVale, innocent of manslaughter by automobile.

The charge resulted in the death of a young companion, 16-year-old Harry L. Dean, on April 15. Dean was a passenger in a sports car operated by Davidson that went out of control on a curve on Oldtown Road at Spring Gap and landed upside down in the C&O Canal. Dean, who was pinned in the car by a safety belt, drowned in the mishap.

The request for a directed verdict was made by Attorney Milton Gerson, who said the state's evidence and witnesses failed to prove that his young client was guilty of gross negligence in the death of the Dean boy.

Testifying for the state were a 14-year-old boy, Donald Irons of Spring Gap, who was at the scene when the Davidson car left the highway; Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, and State Troopers George C. Wachter Jr. and Charles Snow.

A statement taken from the Davidson youth on the day of the fatal accident disclosed that he was attempting to pass a car as he approached a curve on the highway when his brakes locked and the vehicle went out of control.

The Davidson boy's statement also stated he could not recall all the details of the mishap. The car he apparently was passing stopped at the scene, with the driver informing the Irons youth that he would drive on and place a call for assistance. The unknown driver failed to do so.

Judge Fraley said he was convinced the driver of the sports car was careless in that he was driving too fast, but that no evidence was presented that indicated Davidson showed a "wanton and wilful disregard for human life," the basis on which gross negligence is determined.

The prosecution was handled by State's Attorney James S. Getty and Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney.

A charge of reckless driving against Davidson is pending in Trial Magistrate Court. Both charges were made at the time of the investigation, with the more serious count taking preference, court attaches explained.

Frederick Street Paving Ordinance Is Introduced

Streets and alleys again highlighted a meeting of the Mayor and Council when it met yesterday.

In street activity, council withdrew the original ordinance which called for paving and improving Frederick Street from Linden Street north 1,430 feet. This ordinance had been the subject of a protest meeting last Wednesday at which residents of the area protested a plan whereby they would be responsible not only for resurfacing but for a new base and damaged sections of the curbing as well.

As a result of the Wednesday meeting, the city agreed to pay for the base and curb and charge residents for the resurfacing only.

Yesterday, an introductory ordinance giving notice to property owners was passed in which it was stated a hearing would be held June 6 on an ordinance for the resurfacing of Frederick Street from its intersection with Decatur Street north a distance of 2,230 feet. It includes paving, draining and curbing.

Street Commissioner John J. Long, meanwhile, was authorized to advertise for bids for installing the base from Linden 1,430 feet north.

The discussion on alleys occurred when the Cumberland Contracting Company submitted the lone bid for paving nine at a cost of $24,551.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light voted "No" and said, in explaining his vote that before spending the money on alleys "We should apply it to other streets which need it more than alleys." Also, he said, it is claimed there is no money to pave the streets which need it.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming pointed out the bid was being referred and was not up for final action until next week.

Then Commissioner Long commented he thought Light to be "out of line" although it was Light's privilege to state his opinion. Long said, in reply to Light, that maintenance and drainage of alleys is a small city problem and engineers say blacktopping is the most economical solution.

Light said he did not think he was "out of line" and had the right to state his opinion. Then he added:

"Well, I'll hold my 'no' vote for next week then."

Today Swauger's Dam at New Germany State Park will receive its last trout of the season.

The rest of the year, small trout will be placed in Western Maryland waters, he said.

Council Pays Tribute To Piper

The Mayor and Council yesterday expressed "deep personal loss" and paid tribute to the memory of Charles A. Piper, president of Liberty Trust Company, who was drowned in a South Branch boating accident last week.

In another resolution, council commended the Police Department for its handling of traffic during the recent Sports CARnival.

A third resolution supported the Warfield Commission report urging expansion of the University of Maryland and including Frostburg State Teachers College in the liberal arts plan.

Last week, Street Commissioner John J. Long urged the Mayor and Council to give consideration to supporting the commission report. Council also asked the General Assembly to pass appropriate legislation and ordered copies of the resolution sent to state officials.

Lakes Over Crest

Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon two inches above, Acting Superintendent Ray Nixon reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday. Consumption of water for the week ending Sunday was 90,895,000 gallons compared to 82,470,000 the same period a year ago.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Something must be done to save my sister's child but I don't know how to go about it.

Blanche was left a widow when her son was 18 months old. Her husband was well off and left her a lot of money.

I first sensed something was wrong when Blanche brought the boy to my son's birthday party. Curtice was 4 then. She had him dressed in an organdy pinafore and he wore a pink hair-bow in his uncut golden curls. He looked more feminine than some of the little girls.

Curtice is almost nine now. He seems to like to play ball with the boys at school and gets along fine with his classmates. But at home his mother makes him wear frilly dresses and gives him dolls to play with. Last year she took him on a trip in girls' clothes and called him "Karen."

I broached the subject recently when I saw nail polish on the boy. Blanche said, "There's nothing wrong with it. Girls dress like boys these days and no one thinks a thing of it." Please tell me what to do. — WORRIED AUNT

DEAR WORRIED: If Blanche thinks it's "all right" to dress a nine-year-old boy in girls' dresses she should have a talk with a head doctor or two. They will set her straight promptly.

It's too bad Blanche didn't remarry and get some male influence in the house. This boy will be ruined for life unless someone steps in and insists that his mother get professional help. She has a geranium in her cranium.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 20 and head over heels in love with a fellow 22. He married a girl because she got in a family way on purpose to hook him. If he had been a rat instead of a first-class gentleman he would have left her flat.

Syd promised to marry me when his son starts school which will be in three years. I'm willing to wait but my parents insist I move out of the house if I continue to see him. They say they won't allow their home to be used as headquarters for a trashy affair. How can I make them see that this is not just a cheap romance? Please help me, Ann. — SHARON

DEAR SHARON: You're half right — this is not just a cheap romance. It's going to be a very costly one. Costly for you, if you don't stop seeing this man.

He's married and therefore out of bounds. Your folks have a right to object to a married man coming to the house to court their daughter. Regardless of the circumstances, a married man is bad news, and you'll be labeled a home-wrecker if you continue to see him.

DEAR ANN: Our friends had a surprise house-warming party in our new home and it was a very "spirited" evening, if you know what I mean. Several people got thoroughly plastered and unfortunately, there was considerable damage done to the wallpaper, a lamp, a couple of tables and the carpeting.

My mother came over the next day and was appalled at the looks of the place. (I hadn't had a chance to clean it up.) She said the people who had caused the damage should be billed for same. Her suggestion was that the damage be added up, and each of the guests be billed, percentage-wise.

I'd rather die than do this. My husband thinks it's a good idea. What do YOU think? — SURPRISED

DEAR SURPRISED: Guests should not be asked to pay for the damage done on a social visit. However, I do suggest new friends.

Pool Room Gets Permit

The city yesterday took an about face and renewed the permit of James William Lebeck to operate a pool room at 33 North Liberty Street.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said that according to a ruling from City Attorney William R. Carscaden, the city has no right to reject the permit unless it has proper grounds. Therefore, he said, he made a motion that the license be issued.

The city had refused to renew the license on May 9. Last week, Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley in Allegany County Circuit Court enjoined the city from closing the pool room after Lebeck, through his attorney, disputed the legality of the pool room ordinance.

The city had granted the license June 1 a year ago and Lebeck has been operating the pool room since last August 3.

Fire Destroys W. Md. Depot At Frostburg

Intruders May Have Set Blaze

FROSTBURG — Fire believed to have been started by intruders yesterday morning destroyed the Frostburg depot of the Western Maryland Railway.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg reported the large brick structure went up in flames shortly after the first call was received at 3 a.m. as quantities of gasoline, Diesel oil and motor oil stored in the building, ignited.

Huge billows of flames and smoke were interspersed with the explosions of boxes of fusees and torpedoes.

Flames Awoke Woman

The Frostburg Fire Department answered the alarm at 3 a. m. when a woman said flames from the building had aroused her from sleep.

When the first truck arrived, the entire center section of the building was burning through the roof.

The station is located about one-quarter of a mile from the nearest hydrant and firemen had to string a line before any water was available.

The flames spread rapidly into the south end of the structure and firemen were cautioned by neighbors that gas and oil were stored in that part of the building.

Big "Blow Torches"

Shortly after this, intense flames could be seen as the heated fuels in barrels escaped and resembled blow torches.

In a matter of minutes, several explosions ripped this end of the building, causing the fire to spread to all parts of the structure.

Flames and smoke rose several hundred feet in the air. As the roof fell in, water played on the fire had very little effect.

Several firemen escaped injury when the west side of the structure fell outwards, leaving tons of debris and bricks where the men had been standing just seconds before.

Doors Found Open

The Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company laid a hose from Main Street to the fire, but by this time the building was wrecked by the flames and explosions.

Jacobs said William Platter, a Frostburg bakery owner, was on his way to work when he saw the flames. He arrived at the depot before the trucks and stated that doors were open.

The deputy fire marshal said this led him to believe that intruders had broken into the building.

Investigation Underway

Jacobs later questioned G. D. Smith, Mt. Savage, section foreman for the Western Maryland, as to the contents of the structure.

Stored in it were eight barrels of gasoline; four drums of Diesel oil, ten barrels of kerosene, three 55-gallon drums of grease, one barrel of switch grease, three boxes of fusees, one box of torpedoes and one welding outfit.

At the scene yesterday were Maryland State Police investigators along with officials of the Western Maryland Railway.

Frostburg Depot Is Mass Of Rubble And Debris

This scene, taken after fire wrecked the Western Maryland Railway depot at Frostburg, shows the destructive nature of the fire which was out of control when fire companies arrived. Inflammable oil, gasoline and other materials stored in the building fed the flames and added to the difficulty of control. Origin of the blaze is being investigated.

Piedmont KC Charter Is Transferred

Jurisdiction Is Given To Maryland

PIEDMONT—The West Virginia State Council, Knights of Columbus, has formally approved the transfer of the charter of Piedmont Council 685 from West Virginia to the Maryland State Council.

J. William McKone, local grand knight, reported that following lengthy discussion the State Council unanimously agreed to the charter transfer and accepted a resolution submitted by the local council.

A similar resolution requesting acceptance of the transfer was submitted yesterday afternoon when the State Council of Maryland met in Ocean City. Final approval of the transfer must be given by the Supreme Board in New Haven, Conn.

Raymond Beckner, past grand knight, who introduced the resolution to the state unit, pointed ou to the delegates that Piedmont Council has 103 members residing in Maryland while only 51 reside in West Virginia and 16 in other states. A total of 154 members belong to parishes in the Archdiocese of Baltimore. He further pointed out that the present council home is not large enough to accommodate a general membership meeting.

Members of the council tentatively plan to obtain a new home in Maryland, should the Supreme Board approve the transfer of the charter.

McKone and Beckner attended the Ocean City convention to formally request approval of the charter transfer to the Maryland Council.

The Piedmont group voted to co-sponsor Miss Catherine Lupis as candidate for Blue Angel queen. Kenny's Sanitary Market had previously indicated sponsorship of Miss Lupis to reign over Blue Angel Week.

Fifteen members of the local council will be initiated into the fourth degree at ceremonies next Sunday in Cumberland. Prior to the initiation, local members of the fourth degree will hold a corporate communion at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, and attend a breakfast honoring the candidates.

Court Refuses Vote Upset

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Supreme Court Monday turned down a Morgantown man's bid to upset the primary election voting in the Democratic race for second congressional district delegates to the party's national convention in Los Angeles.

Minter L. Wilson sought to have the high court order the Barbour County Court to throw out all votes cast in the election. He claimed his name had been left off ballots used by Democratic voters in Barbour County.

The high court split, 3-2, as Judges Chauncey Browning and Thornton Berry would have granted the petition.

Wilson said that in the other 14 counties of the district, unofficial returns showed he polled the second highest number of votes for one of the two convention seats allocated the district. However, when Barbour County votes were added to the total, Mrs. Virginia Wilson of Romney took over second place.

GETS APPOINTMENT—Russell W. Harrison Jr., son of Mr, and Mrs. Russell W. Harrison and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Blair, all former residents of Cumberland who reside in Ellicott City, has received an appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. He attended Mt. Royal School and will be graduated from Howard High School, Ellicott City, in June. He will report to the academy July 5.

"Overdoing" What Comes Naturally

It's not what teen-age girls DO that clamors for the wrong kind of attention. It's what they OVERDO. And they usually overdo as a crowd!

If the clan "uniform" becomes bulky sweaters and socks with arrow-straight skirts, then the sweaters and socks must be grossly shapeless, the skirts skintight and too long.

For a party, the crowd will overdress, theatrically copying glamour ads. On the other hand, they tend to interpret casual costumes to mean apparel that is sloppy and careless, with grooming to match.

When the gang applies cosmetics, it's the signal for full battle regalia...eyes paint-coated, mouths contorted with thick gum of a plummy color, nails filed into chipped-carmine swords.

And when the group speaks, it shrieks. Truly, one must speak louder than the other, in order to be heard at all.

It's not just their parents who are conservative enough to cringe at the distortions created by too much of so many good things. If anything, teen-age boys are, by nature, more conservative than most parents— and that includes Victorian mamas and papas.

They cant help noticing what the noticeable girls are overdoing— but there is a broad jump between notice and attraction.

Smart young girls, from junior high school up, will recognize that most boys want to date girls who make them feel comfortable and reassured. They are frightened away by girls who affect extremes in dress and behavior.

Far more sensitive to criticism than most girls realize, boys dont want to feel embarrassed and apologetic because of their "company taste."

However noisy and casual boys may act with one another, they want their dates to be "understated," to be dainty and demure, neat and natural.

So, if the girls overdo anything, it should be in the interests of good grooming. Let them shower and shampoo oftener, help one another achieve attractive coiffures; devote as much time to taking care of their clothes as they do to experimenting with cosmetics.

Together, they can share all the books and magazine articles on modest, becoming fashions in dress and makeup for their age. Together they can study the effects of nutrition and exercise on the figure and complection.

One booklet they might do well to study in concert (literally!) is Your Most Attractive Voice, obtained for only 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope mailed to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper.

Ordinary hospitalization programs provide benefits in terms of fixed dollar allowances for certain types of services. The trouble is, when hospital costs are rising —as during the present inflationary period—these fixed allowances cover less and less of the hospital bill. The benefits, in effect, shrink!

By contrast, Blue Cross covers most hospital services in full. If the cost of those services goes up, Blue Cross still covers them—in full!

In hospitalization programs—as in anything else—it's not just what you spend, but what you get for what you spend. Mail this coupon today for the full story on Blue Cross. Compare Blue Cross with other programs. You'll be impressed by the difference.

The Cold War Of The Air Waves

Radio Moscow's North American Service—the Russian counterpart of the Voice of America—has increased the number of broadcasts beamed to this country. The service recently invited its American listeners on the East Coast to tune in new morning programs (9 to 9:30 a. m. EDT) in addition to the regular evening broadcasts, which commence at 7 p. m. EDT and run until 1:30 a. m. EDT.

The English-language morning program consists of the "news" (actually a commentary), a review of Moscow's morning newspapers, with music added. As usual, Radio Moscow is asking American listeners to submit any questions they may have about Communist society. The questions are answered by mail or on the air.

Radio Moscow's American audience is a limited one because short-wave radios never have won the popularity here they enjoy in most foreign countries. But the broadcasts come in loud and clear on as many as 15 different frequencies for listeners who do have short-wave sets. A similar service to the West Coast operates from 8 p. m. to 12:30 a. m. PDT.

This country never has jammed the Soviet broadcasts, or the two hours of daily English-language transmissions from Communist China. Russia jammed the Voice of America Russian-language broadcasts until Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States last September, and resumed selective interference on May 5 after the U-2 plane incident.

American listeners tuning in Radio Moscow's North American Service on May 7 would have been treated to this dissertation on evils of the spy plane incident: "The public of this country would like to know why U.S. aircraft find it necessary to snoop around the Soviet Union. Soviet planes do not molest U. S. frontiers. And why has the Pentagon circled this country with bases? The Soviet Union has no bases in foreign countries."

So goes the battle for loyalties in the Cold

Children Of Today May Suffer The Consequences Of Summit Failure

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter on the summit conference written to his daughter, Mrs. Dwight Whitney, in Los Angeles.)

My dear daughter,

I have been in Paris for a conference which carried the hopes of all mankind but which has dashed those hopes into irretrievable bits and pieces.

I can't write about it to your sons as I sometimes do, because they wouldn't understand it. And even if they could, I wouldn't want to depress them with my pessimism. But you, who have borne sons, and all the mothers whose sons may have to fight another war, should know what has happened and why.

During past years I have watched a good many of the world's faltering steps toward peace — three of them here in Paris. When I was a young newspaperman and you were a cute two-year-old baby I came to Paris when Secretary of State Kellogg signed the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war.

It was a thrilling ceremony. All over the world people rejoiced at the thought that war would be no more.

That was in 1928, and only a couple of years later the Japanese war lords landed in Manchuria to start a small local conflict which gradually was to erode and spread into major war.

I came to Paris again when World War II was over to watch Jimmy Byrnes, then Secretary of State, try to write a treaty of peace. That was in 1946. Your first son was born that year, and I remember the hope I had, and that millions of others had, that he and other children would not grow up to fight another war; the hope that this treaty of peace would really bring peace.

That treaty was never written. Russia, then represented by a bitter old Bolshevik, Foreign Minister Molotov, rejected the terms.

History Of Mistakes

But gradually, despite that failure, the world has moved toward peace. Little by little we have come to understand other countries better, including Russia. And this summit conference which has now failed, was to have written an important chapter in that understanding.

The chapter that has now been written, however, is a very black one, and I have been sitting here figuring out the moves that could have been made to have had it end in success rather than failure.

The history of these mistakes is important. Because we can't stop at failure. We have to try to pick up the pieces and grope ahead toward peace. To admit failure, to stop where we are, means certain drift toward war.

I think the first mistake was to postpone the summit conference. It was in September that Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower first decided at Camp David to hold a summit conference, and originally it was to be held in December. Then it was postponed and postponed. Finally President de Gaulle set the date — May 16. And he set it eight months after the Camp David talks in order to give France time to explode its own atomic bomb.

Thus we used a warlike reason for postponing a conference to promote peace.

Another thing President Eisenhower forgot is that peace is very delicate and tender. It can be eroded by a lot of little mistakes just as a lot of little streams can wash away a beautiful garden. Like a garden, peace must be cared for every day. The weeds of bitterness and hate have to be pulled out. You can't go off and play golf or bridge, leaving the garden of peace to sharecroppers or tenant farmers.

Ike Abdicated

This is what the President did, however. Eisenhower is sincerely a man of peace. I believe that more than anything else in life he wanted to build a peaceful world. But Mr. Eisenhower is not always well, is a little old, and sometimes a little lazy. He went off and left the garden of peace too much to others.

In fact he pretty much abdicated the leadership of the western world to President de Gaulle. He left the question of Berlin almost entirely in the hands of de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer. He took their word that it would not come up at the Paris conference when actually it was certain to come up.

And he let his own subordinates, Undersecretary of State Dillon and Secretary Herter, deliver tirades against the Russians shortly before a conference in which he had to get along with the Russians; also despite an agreement at Camp David that leaders of both the USA and USSR would refrain from critical speeches. They were busy planting weeds of bitterness in the garden of peace.

Finally, Ike came to Paris with little advance preparation for what was to be one of the most important conferences of the century. He relied on charm and the old Eisenhower smile to win over Mr. Khrushchev.

Then as you know, an observation plane which never should have been sent over Russia at this time, was shot down — another illustration of how isolated, unrelated incidents can erode and destroy the peace. When you're trying to build up peace you have to keep an eye on every possible incident; you can't let anything detract or destroy what you're aiming at. Unfortunately the President, with all his fine motives, was not alert to guard the great goal which he himself so cherished.

I'll explain why he didn't in another letter or in the column, even though you don't like to read the newspapers. Meanwhile my love to my three energetic grandsons, and to you.

Your father

Does Khrushchev Want Stevenson Elected?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Does Nikita Khrushchev want to see Adlai Stevenson elected President of the United States in November so that he can negotiate a deal at the next "summit" conference?

Does Mr. Khrushchev hope that Mr. Stevenson, if not nominated, will be considered for the post of Secretary of State in a Democratic administration, as Senator Kennedy hinted the other day?

Why was Mr. Stevenson, in an interview published in Paris a week ago Sunday, quoted as favoring an allied retreat on the Berlin problem?

Why did Mr. Stevenson last Thursday night tell a political dinner meeting in Chicago that the administration has "helped make successful negotiations with the Russians — negotiations that are vital to our survival — impossible so long as they are in power"?

These questions are prompted by a strange sequence of circumstances. Thus on March 9 last the "New York Times" printed a United Press International dispatch from Moscow which read:

"Soviet Premier Khrushchev has his own opinions about the United States' Democratic Party's Presidential possibilities, he revealed tonight. He put Adlai Stevenson at the top of his list in comments to Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco at a dinner. Mr. Khrushchev's rating of the Democrats:

"Mr. Stevenson: the best among United States politicians.

"Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts: able, but some reservations about his youthfulness.

"Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri: he's a 'good' man."

No other Presidential aspirants were mentioned, not even Senator Humphrey, who had once participated in a marathon conference of several hours with the Soviet premier. Mr. Stevenson also conferred at length with Mr. Khrushchev in Moscow and wrote articles about him, but they did not contain any of the sting that the Minnesota Senator included in his published remarks.

Mr. Stevenson, therefore, apparently is the favorite of Mr. Khrushchev, who has brushed aside the old rule of diplomacy that a foreign government must not interfere in the political campaigns of another country. The Soviet premier evidently thinks that Mr. Stevenson, as the titular head of the Democratic Party, speaks for it.

But James A. Farley, former Postmaster General in the cabinet of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has just issued a statement urging the Democratic Party to repudiate Mr. Stevenson's speech of last Thursday night. Mr. Farley said in part:

"The unwarranted attack of Mr. Adlai E. Stevenson on the President's conduct of the summit negotiations, in my opinion, in no way represents the thinking of the Democratic Party . . . in his few remaining weeks as titular spokesman of the Democratic Party he has indicated every reason why the Democratic Party in convention should select a spokesman who speaks for it in fact. I can think of no more effective way of doing so than by a unanimous resolution of condemnation and repudiation of his absurd speech in Chicago as representing the views of the Democratic Party."

The strangest episode of all, however, is the interview with Mr. Stevenson which Soviet Premier Khrushchev read in "Paris-Press L'Intransigeant" just after his recent arrival in Paris. That interview was written by Robert Boulay after a visit to Mr. Stevenson's home at Libertyville, Ill., where he said he spent an afternoon, together with other guests. The article, with a streamer headline across the page, said that Adlai Stevenson had proposed virtually a retreat from Berlin and American troop withdrawal from Europe. The published interview was a shock to Americans abroad, coming as it did just a few days before the "summit" conference was to open. Evidently Mr. Khrushchev read it carefully, because in his own speech at East Berlin last Friday he paraphrased one of the points in the interview to charge that Chancellor Adenauer had succeeded "in worming his way to the post of Secretary of State of the United States."

Mr. Boulay, in his interview, quotes Mr. Stevenson as having said:

"For ten years there has not really been a Secretary of State for American foreign policy. During that period the real American Secretary of State has been German Chancellor Adenauer."

In other parts of the same interview, Mr. Stevenson is quoted as favoring American concessions, such as a substantial decrease in Allied troops in West Berlin. He is reported to have declared also that he could foresee in the future the pulling of American forces out of Europe. When asked whether there would be a change in American foreign policy after the November elections, Mr. Stevenson is quoted as having said: "There will be important changes in American foreign policy."

Mr. Stevenson last Tuesday denied ever having given any interview at all to any Paris newspaper. But he issued a statement to the "Chicago Daily News" the next day admitting that he had talked with Robert Boulay but calling the published interview incorrect. He said it did not represent his views and that "the most charitable explanation of such irresponsibility, presumption and discourtesy is that his English was poor and my French no better."

In Paris, however, Americans who know Mr. Boulay say he writes and talks English very well and is a reliable reporter. Just what did Mr. Stevenson really say to Mr. Boulay? Maybe all this is something for the Democrats in Congress to include in their investigation of recent events. For there is no doubt that an appeasement faction exists today inside the Democratic Party, and certainly Mr. Stevenson's speech — just four days before the all-important debate at the United Nations Security Council — helped to wreck bipartisan unity in this country.

These Days

Behind The Times

Politicians usually regard themselves as very practical. This obviously cannot be so, for one of these Jove-like creatures must be defeated at each election. It can then be reasoned that the one who is out is the one who knows less than the one who gets in. Actually no such clear-cut conclusion can be reached. Politicians guess, the same as you and I.

This is a curious country because the population is in a constant state of flux. It was not so many years ago that the number of Americans who attended college was few. Colleges were comparatively costly. Graduate schools were not too available in this country. Those who sought higher education went to Europe, principally to Germany. In fact, our system of higher education was modelled on the German rather than the British universities.

Today, although some of our colleges are not superior to earlier high schools, it is true that millions of young people attend colleges of some kind. They learn how to read and if they are overmajorized, they nevertheless have had some contact with ideas. Politicians do not find it so easy to deal with the current crop of young people. Some of them, like the Beatniks, may look queer and even have funny ideas, but they can, if they want to, read. This makes it very tough for the practical politicians.

Look at the ages of the current breed of Presidential candidates: Kennedy, 42; Nixon, 47; Johnson, 51; Symington, 58. These are comparatively young men, younger than candidates usually have been, although Theodore Roosevelt was only 42 years old when he became President.

Candidates for public office have to speak the language of their own generation. The brassy, shouting, boy-from-the-log-cabin candidate has nothing to say to the current generation. Hubert Humphrey talked about what might be called bread-and-butter questions and in an era of inflation, he sounded like William Jennings Bryan berating William McKinley. It had no meaning against John Kennedy who spoke a Harvard broad A and looked literate. Humphrey had once been a university professor, come to Earth and gone liberal. So what? The youngsters know lots of professors and many are squares.

Also the politician has to note the rise in white collar workers. Their income amounts to 53.4 per cent of all income. They own lots of small houses all over the place. They have pretty wives who dress up and like good things. An astonishingly large number of these workers are professionals, chemists, physicists, biologists, technicians of various kinds, accountants, and all sorts of specialists. Most of these are not only college graduates; many have at least an M.A. They are employed in every growing industry and hit the time clock the same as any other worker but they have the advantage of being specialists. Actually, there is always a shortage of top white collar workers, from presidents of corporations down to first-rate stenographers.

The politician has a hard time with this new element. Adlai Stevenson thought in two campaigns that he had these college-trained voters. He talks their language and he has advertised himself as an intellectual rather than a politician, but twice, he was defeated. Whatever it was, Stevenson has never been able to win as much popularity among this element in our population as he had expected.

Stevenson, in fact, is a political phenomenon. Practically unknown, he became Governor of Illinois. The politicians permitted him to run for the Presidency during two campaigns when no Democrat could have been elected. This gave Stevenson stature, but he hardly did much about it. He saw John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson garner the delegates for the 1960 Convention, but he went travelling in South America, whence little news came from him. When the Humphrey effort failed and he withdrew, Stevenson became more active, perhaps hopeful to benefit by a transfer of A.D.A. influence from Humphrey to Stevenson. But how many delegates did Humphrey garner? Too few to matter.

The white collar element does not seem to turn to a political oddity for leadership. It is rather establishing a new type of middle class—not an employing class, but intellectuals who work not so much in schools and colleges but in industry and government. This change in population characteristics cannot be ignored in this campaign.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CAMPAIGN MATERIAL — The Smithsonian Institution, aware that this is a political year, will place its large collection of campaign material on display in June. It undoubtedly will provide a new attraction for tourists and vacationers this summer and autumn. The Smithsonian has long been a "must" attraction for visitors to Washington.

The collection of cartoons, posters, pamphlets and tracts covers the entire period of American political development from George Washington's inauguration in 1789 down to the present. Arrangements have been completed with the major political parties to present copies of their literature in future campaigns so the collection can be kept current.

Some of the items, particularly the cartoons and some of the more scurrilous pamphlets of the Nineteenth Century, make present day politics look mild by comparison.

Among the 20,000 items are innumerable songsheets which boomed the candidacies of men like Abraham Lincoln. The songs were sung throughout the land as a popular form of entertainment of the day.

When the Smithsonian's new museum is completed in 1962, the campaign collection will go on permanent exhibition, showing milestones in political techniques, including the railroad car, the airplane, and possibly a model of a television studio.

Facts To Be Faced

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS

After the ugly scenes of the aborted summit meeting, it is wise to make up a sort of balance sheet of facts to be faced.

The first fact that needs facing, alas, is the grave loss of prestige and confidence that President Eisenhower has suffered. As Walter Lippmann has written, it is right that men of all parties should rally to the President, but it is also wrong to be self-deluding. The affair of the U-2 has caused America's greatest friends in the Western alliance to conclude that America's present leadership is bumbling and maladroit.

There is no use arguing about the justice or injustice of this conclusion. It is there, like the weather; and like the weather, it has to be taken into consideration.

The second fact to be faced is less painful to American self-esteem but decidedly more alarming. The leadership of the other great world-block is even more dangerous and implacable than all but the worst of pessimists had imagined in their gloomiest moments.

After seeing Nikita S. Khrushchev do everything but froth at the mouth and chew the carpet at his incredible press conference, a great many observers in Paris began to use the grim adjective, "Hitlerian." In this reporter's opinion, the adjective is misapplied. Khrushchev was intentionally making Hitler-like noises, in order to intimidate as Hitler intimidated. But those who know the man best believe that he was doing this from calculation, and not because he was carried away as the neurotic Hitler so often used to be.

But even if Khrushchev is not semi-lunatic, as Adolf Hitler was, the consolation is trifling. The character of his mental processes are not very important, after all, if he is capable of talking as he has talked and acting as he has threatened to act. The Khrushchev seen in Paris was no jolly, proverb-quoting, detente-seeking peasant. This man was a political carnivore, cheated of his prey.

As for the third and final fact to be faced, it flows directly from the second. A major effort to strengthen the military defenses of the West is now a matter of great urgency. This is clearly true, even although the incident of the U-2 has revealed a current balance of power that seems to be reasonably satisfactory.

There are two reasons why a strengthened defense effort is now urgent. On the one hand, no one who has watched Khrushchev's macabre and brutal performance in Paris can doubt that this man is capable of striking at the U. S. and the West with every bomb in his arsenal, if ever he believed he can do so with impunity. On the other hand, the military balance, though still apparently satisfactory, is plainly tilting in Khrushchev's favor. Later on, therefore, he may come to believe it is safe to strike. This is what has to be averted at all costs.

The main things that need doing are the same things that were discussed during the debate on national defense at the beginning of the year. Appropriations are needed to inaugurate a maximum airborne alert of the Strategic Air Command's entire force of B-52 bombers. The airborne alert ought to begin now, and continue a full strength until the U. S. striking power in long range guided missiles has been massively augmented.

Similarly the buildup of the long range missiles ought to be increased in every way possible, and every dollar should be appropriated that can be used to speed the two reconnaissance satellite projects, Midas and Semos. In addition, the affair of the U-2 plainly proves the shortsightedness of the policymakers who have cut back production of the B-52-H bomber almost to zero.

Here is a bomber with the range, speed, and altitude characteristics that will allow it to imitate the U-2s performance. It can go almost where it will in the skies above the Soviet Union, just as the U-2 did for so long. It is not menaced, so far as is known, by improvements in the Soviet air defense system, whereas the B-52, flying at lower speeds and at somewhat lower altitudes, may well be menaced later on.

It is hard to understand how any policyholder can have all but stopped production of the B-52-H bomber, with the example of the U-2 before his eyes. But this is what was done. And this is what should now be undone as far as possible.

More costly defense programs; still deeper distrust of the Kremlin; apologies needed for our own leaderships performance — they make an unpleasant list. But we have now been warned. It can be very dangerous indeed if the warning is ignored.

10-Point Program To Keep Men Alive Longer

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is time for the male population to invest in health. The dividends are greater than from stocks and bonds and they are not taxable or influenced by the market or inflation. Here is a 10 point program that should improve health and longevity. Start now — you'll never get any younger — if you want to get older.

1. Have a good physical examination to determine the present state of health. Minor ailments can be corrected and adverse conditions that shorten life, such as diabetes and high blood pressure, often can be controlled.

2. Bring weight down to normal whether you are 12 years old or 65.

3. Acquire good eating habits, including planned meals containing the basic food elements.

4. Be moderate in all things, including the use of stimulants, alcohol, and tobacco.

5. Establish a physical fitness program in keeping with age and the present physical condition.

6. Avoid accidents by concentrating on safety and eliminating all booby traps and other potential sources of injury.

7. Stop killing yourself to make your widow rich. Get ample rest and take advantage of every vacation.

8. Cultivate good mental health and strive for happiness and tranquility. Avoid contacts that create worry, anxiety, insecurity, loneliness, and other emotional disturbances. Religion is most helpful here.

9. When the time comes, retire if you have nothing better to do.

10. Consult your physician when symptoms develop; more so, when they persist.

TOMORROW: Wishing off warts.

DIAPER TEST

Mrs. M. writes: After reading your article on the diaper test to find out whether a baby has phenyketonuria, I wondered if the mother could do this test.

REPLY

Yes. A recently available dip-and-read test (Phenistix) makes the results more dependable than in the past. But the physician who delivered the baby will be glad to make the test for you. If he finds the defect, he will prescribe a special dietary mixture with a low phenylalanine content. This is a metabolic disease of babies (PKU) that results in mental retardation unless treated soon after birth.

CROSS-EYE

C. H. R. writes: What treatment do you recommend for a 1 year old with cross-eye?

REPLY

The tot should be examined by an eye specialist because cross-eye in young children often can be cured without surgery. Conservative measures include placing a patch over the good eye, to force the lazy eye to work. Other measures may be used as the child becomes more cooperative.

ENDOMETRIOSIS

A. B. writes: Can a woman with endometriosis conceive?

REPLY

Yes, but 75 per cent of women with this condition are sterile. Some become pregnant before endometriosis develops.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Pop Larkins drove his wife and six kids to town one Saturday afternoon and, after two hours of hunting, finally found a parking space. Now does anybody remember why we drove to town?"

Sandy Koufax Hurls One-Hitter, Stops Pirates, 1-0

Los Angeles Lefthander Whiffs Ten

Doubles By Larker And Davis In 7th Score Only Run

By RUDY CERNKOVIC
United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —Los Angeles southpaw Sandy Koufax hurled a brilliant one-hitter Monday night and struck out 10 to break his six-game losing streak with a 1-0 shutout over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Despite the loss the Pirates still retained a one-game lead over the idle San Francisco Giants.

The 24-year-old curve ball artist won his first game since last Aug. 31 when he set down San Francisco, 5-2, and struck out 18 at the Coliseum. He raised his 1960 strikeout total to 43 in 38 2-3 innings for the best fanning record of any National League pitcher.

Koufax now has 529 strikeouts in the 558 innings he has pitched since he broke into the National League in 1955. He has the best strikeout record of any active NL pitcher.

Fans Skinner Twice

Although Koufax walked six, he pitched himself out of trouble by silencing the big guns in the Pirate lineup. He struck out Bob Skinner, the team's second best hitter, twice and fanned Roberto Clemente, the NL batting leader, once and got him on infield putouts on three other trips.

The only Pirate batter to get a hit was starter and losing pitcher Benny Daniels who singled to left field in the second inning.

Daniels allowed only four hits—the Dodger total for the game—but two of them were doubles to Norman Larker and Tommy Davis that produced the game's only run in the seventh inning.

Daniels struck out six and allowed three walks, two of which were intentional, before he was lifted for a pinchhitter in the seventh inning. Roy Face pitched hitless ball in two innings of relief.

Daniels Gets Hit

Koufax allowed two walks in the first inning but struck out the side. In the next inning, when he allowed his only hit, the Pirates filled the bases on walks to Skinner and Bill Mazeroski and Daniels' only hit. But Dick Groat hit into a forced play and the three runners were stranded.

The lefthander was never in serious trouble the rest of the way and only eight of his pitches reached the outfield.

CINCINNATI (AP) — George Altman's second home run of the season hoisted Chicago Cubs to a 13th inning victory over Cincinnati Monday night 7-6.

It was one of a half dozen homers sprayed around Crosley Field —four by the Reds.

Ben Johnson, last of five Chicago pitchers to try his hand, picked up the victory after two innings of work.

In the bottom of the 13th, he retired the last three redlegs in order.

All but one Cincinati run came on homers, including Gus Bell's two-run poke in the bottom of the 12th that gave the Reds a 6-6 tie.

Mincher, who went to Washington in a deal for Roy Sievers with the Chicago White Sox, was something of a sensation at the beginning of the season. He recently yielded first base to Bob Allison.

California Is Still Paying For Olympics

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—It was made clear Monday that California isn't through paying for the multimillion-dollar Olympic Winter Games. How much more it will pay, was a matter of conjecture.

4 Americans Win British Golf Matches

Amateur Tests Are Under Way

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (AP) — Only four Americans, headed by Tim Holland of Rockville Centre, N.Y., staggered off the rain and wind-swept Portrush links Monday with first round victories in the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Ten of their fellow countrymen, feeling even colder, wetter and more miserable in defeat were eliminated by weather-hardened players from the British Isles. Most of the Americans beaten Monday and those who advanced with byes are stationed in Europe.

The U.S. contingent made its worst start in this tournament since World War II. But there were excuses for Uncle Sam's linksmen. Some of them had never even seen rain as hard as this Irish soaker before.

Counting players who received first round byes, the Americans had 15 shooters still left in the tournament. None of them, however, is in the class of Deane Beman, the collegian from Silver Spring, Md., who won last year but did not return to defend the crown.

Top favorite in the starting field of 180 was Dublin's Joe Carr, a two-time winner and a semifinalist on four other occasions. The Irish star and the seven other seeded players — all from the British Isles — received first round byes.

All matches are over 18 holes except for the 36-hole semifinals and final on Friday and Saurday over the 6,842-yard, par 36-36—72 layout.

Holland, a semifinalist in this tournament in 1958, eliminated another American, Peter Grant of Phoenix, Ariz., 4 and 2.

Venetian Way Will Prove Better Than Bally Ache

Sovinski Declares Belmont Stakes Next Month Is Real Test

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Trainer Vic Sovinski said Monday Venetian Way is a better horse than Bally Ache and will prove it in days to come.

Venetian Way won the May 7 Kentucky Derby by some 3½ lengths with Bally Ache second. But Bally Ache led all the way in capturing the Preakness last Saturday by four lengths with Venetian Way fifth in the field of six.

Sovinski, who arrived here at Garden State Park Monday, asserted that the mile and a half Belmont Stakes in New York next month would be the real test.

"Those who think Bally Ache can lick Venetian Way by a city block may have to swing over after the Belmont," said Sovinski.

"The Preakness didn't change my mind on the ability of these two horses," the trainer said. "Bally Ache, of course, is a good horse. He's been out of the money only once, and you have to give him credit. But I'm not convinced he's better than Venetian Way."

Sovinski now is readying Venetian Way for the $100,000 added Jersey Derby at Garden State Memorial Day. Bally Ache plus C. V. Whitney's Tompion and Bourbon Prince also are slated to go in the Jersey at a mile and a furlong. This gives the race four of the first five finishers in the Kentucky Derby.

Allegheny College Is Trophy Winner

MEADVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — Allegheny College, by winning four championships out of 10 sports in which it competed, has taken the All-Sports trophy of the eight-team President's Athletic Conference.

Lions Seek Third Win Over Jaycees

Rain washed out the two games scheduled yesterday in the Hot Stove Baseball League but there will be two more games on tap for today.

The Lions Club (2-0) will oppose the Jaycees (0-1) at Penn Avenue Field and the B.P.O. Elks (0-2) will meet B'nai B'rith (0-1) at Mason Road Field. The games will get under way at 5:30 p.m.

Games halted yesterday by rain were Kiwanis Club vs. Cumberland Optimists and Bedford Road Optimist Club vs. Cumberland Outdoor Club.

Jose Becerra Retains His Ring Title

Bantam Champion Defeats Yonekura

By JAMES CARY
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (AP) — World bantamweight champion Jose Becerra of Mexico retained his title Monday night by gaining a narrow split decision over Japan's Kenji Yonekura in a 15-round bout telecast throughout Japan.

A crowd of about 25,000 in the 40,000 - seat Korakuen baseball stadium saw the hard-hitting Mexican champion chase the retreating challenger throughout the fight.

Wins 21st Straight

But the 24-year-old Becerra, winner of 40 fights by knockouts, never could pin his fleet-footed opponent and set him up for a knockout. He didn't even score a knockdown. It was Becerra's 21st straight victory, 15 of them by knockouts.

The broad shouldered champion won the 118-pound division crown by knockout of France's Alphonse Halimi in 1959 and he put Halimi down for the full count again in their return bout last February.

Anthony Maceroni, the president of the National Boxing Assn., from Providence, R.I., cast the deciding ballot. He had Becerra the winner, 147-141, under the 10-point scoring system. Referee Ramon Berumen of Mexico voted for Becerra, 146-142. Judge Ko Toyama of Japan had Yonekura ahead, 148-143.

Guaranteed $50,000

For his second title defense, Becerra received a $50,000 guarantee. The 25-year-old Yonekara, in his 11th professional fight, was guaranteed only $2,000. He came out of the fight, however, with addded prestige.

Yonekura's record is 7-4 compared to Becerra's 68-4-2 won-lost-draw log. Each weighed 117½ pounds.

"I was sure I had him all the way but I just couldn't catch him," said Becerra. "He is agile, fast and has good legs — very good legs. I kept trying for a knockout but I couldn't get to him."

"I thought I won," said the disappointed challenger. "His punches didn't hurt nearly as much as I was told they would."

Milt Pappas Lost To Birds For Week

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Milt Pappas of the Baltimore Orioles, a 15-game winner last season who has had arm trouble this spring, will be lost to the team for at least a week.

The 21-year-old right-hander rejoined the team Monday night after a trip to Baltimore for an examination of his sore elbow. His problem was diagnosed as muscular.

Pappas will undergo heat treatments and won't be allowed to throw for six or seven days.

The young pitcher had a 15-9 record last year, his second full season in the major leagues. His earned run average was 3.27.

This season, his record is 2-4 with a 6.90 ERA in 30 innings. Wildness has been his chief trouble — he has given 22 walks—and Manager Paul Richards thinks the soreness has caused Pappas to deliver the ball differently.

Yankees Edge Kansas City In Ninth, 4-3

Howard's Sacrifice Fly Decides Game

By DON SWANSON
United Press International

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Pinch-hitter Elston Howard's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning scored Gil McDougald and gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory Monday over the Kansas City Athletics.

By winning, the Yankees continued their domination over the Athletics. It was their 21st victory in the last 26 games between the two clubs, and gave New York a 4-0 edge this year.

Howard's long fly to right-center field came with McDougald on third and Bobby Richardson second, each of whom had walked and broke a 3-3 deadlock.

The Yankees' first three runs came in the second inning on singles by Roger Maris, Richardson, and Bob Turley, a fielder's choice, and a double by Tony Kubek.

Kansas City hopped on its old nemesis, Turley, for three hits and one run in the first inning and chased the fast-balling right-hander with a four - hit, two-run rally in the sixth.

The first Kansas City run came on singles by Jerry Lumpe, Russ Snyder and Whitey Herzog. The Athletics got their other two runs in the sixth on a triple by Norm Siebern and singles by Herzog, Harry Chiti and Andy Carey.

Rookie John Gabler picked up his second victory of the season in relief, hurling two scoreless innings. He needed help, however, from Ryne Duren in the ninth. Duren retired the A's on three strikeouts.

Ray Herbert went the route and absorbed the loss, his second defeat in four decisions.

St. Paddy Is 5-1 Choice In Derby

LONDON (AP) — Sir Victor Sassoon's colt St. Paddy, England's big hope to win the Epsom Derby classic from the Irish and French trained horses, spurted to odds of 5-1 Monday.

When bookies met at their headquarters at London's Victoria Club to fix the odds, St. Paddy displaced the American-owned Die Hard as second favorite.

Sassoon's horse a week ago was third on the list at 10-1. He boosted his prospects with a handsome win in the Dante Stakes at York last week.

MacKay, Ayala Eliminated By Brazilian Duo

Miss Hard Advances In French Tourney

PARIS (UPI)—Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., blasted her way into the women's singles semifinals in the French International Tennis championships Monday by rallying to defeat Renee Schurrman of South Africa, 5-7, 6-2, 11-9.

However, the American forces suffered a shocking setback in the quarter-finals of the men's doubles when Davis Cup star Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and Luis Ayala of Chile were eliminated by the young Brazilian team of Carlos Fernandez and Ronald Barnes, 12-10, 6-3, 6-4.

The men's singles division also produced a surprise when Robert Haillet of France gained a berth in the semifinals at the expense of Wimbledon champion Neale Fraser of Australia, who had to abandon their match in the decisive fifth set because of leg cramps.

In the semifinals, Miss Hard will oppose Maria Esther Bueno of Brazil, the 1959 Wimbledon champion, who also needed three sets Monday before eliminating Jeanine Lehane of Australia, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3.

Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy joined Haillet in the Men's semifinals by turning back Andres Gimeno of Spain, 6-3, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

The remaining quarter - finals will be played Tuesday, with MacKay meeting Italy's Orlando Sirola and Ayala playing Manuel Santana of Spain.

Caseys Tackle Vets In Chair Loop Today

Manager Cecil Grimes' undefeated Veterans of Foreign Wars (3-0) will meet the Knights of Columbus (1-1) in today's feature attraction in the Rocking Chair Softball League at Post Field at 6:15 p. m.

Ritter A. C., which has played only one game to date and lost it, meets the B. P. O. Elks (0-3) at Stitcher Field while the Loyal Order of Moose (2-1) and Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company (0-2) tangle at East Side Field.

The Celanese A. A. (2-0) is idle today.

Roger Craig of the Los Angeles Dodgers missed the 1959 National League earned run title by one inning. He compiled a 2.06 ERA in 153 innings. A pitcher needs 154 innings for recognition in the averages.

LaSalle Visits Allegany For 5th In City Series

Fort Hill To Seek 10th Straight Win In Game At Bruce

The fifth in the annual series of six games that are staged to determine the city baseball championship will be played today when LaSalle High School's Explorers engage the Allegany High Campers at Campobello at 4 p. m.

Fort Hill, winner of four straight city games a year ago is leading the race with a 2-1 record, having split even with LaSalle and beat Allegany in the series opener. Allegany (1-1) has beaten LaSalle (11-7) and lost to Fort Hill (10-0). LaSalle with a 1-2 record can windup with a .500 record by taking the final game today. If the Campers sweep the series the outcome of the city race will hinge on the outcome of the Allegany- Fort Hill contest on May 31.

This Allegany-LaSalle game is also one of four contests in the Allegany County High School League billed for today.

Fort Hill, leading the league with a 10-1 record, will be angling for its 10th straight victory when it faces Bruce High's Bulldogs at Westernport. This is the second of four games on the Bruce schedule this week. Fort Hill won four games last week while LaSalle and Allegany won three each. The Sentinels whipped Bruce 20-0 on April 29.

Allegany trails Fort Hill in the county race with an 8-1 record.

Other games on today's County League schedule are Mt. Savage at Beall and Valley at Flinstone.

The postponed game of May 10 between Bruce and Allegany is rescheduled for Wednesday at 4 p. m. at Campobello.

The LaSalle at Bruce game yesterday was postponed because the playing field at Westernport was unfit for play due to rain earlier in the day.

Bulldogs To Play Moorefield Today

Rain yesterday caused postponement of the West Virginia Region 4 baseball final between the tossers of Martinsburg High School and Moorefield High School at Charles Town.

The game has been reset for today and if the field at Charles Town is still unfit the contest may be shifted to Moorefield. A decision on the site for the game will be made this morning.

Memorial Day weekend's on the way. Now's the time to get the right tires—at the right price—for your summer driving.

Buying the right tire is as easy as B-F-G

Heavy summer driving... the Premium-Quality B.F.Goodrich "HT." Turnpike drivers who pile up mileage at superhighway speeds need a premium-quality tire that can take it. The new premium-quality B.F.Goodrich "HT" has an extra-wide, extra-deep tread on top of 4 plies of extra-strong nylon cord. Gives 22% more mileage than a regular, first-quality tire for only about $3 more!
$29.95 NYLON WHITEWALL TUBELESS 6.70-15 or 7.50-14
$24.60 NYLON BLACKWALL TUBELESS 6.70-15 or 7.50-14
Plus tax and your retreadable tire

Normal summer driving... the First-Quality BFG "Silvertown." Most drivers make scores of short trips around town during summer plus a long vacation jaunt. They need a first-quality tire like the BFG "Silvertown" — the tire auto makers put through severe tests, then chose for their 1960 cars. Its new "Quiet Rubber" takes the squeal out of corners . . . gives a really smooth ride!
$27.40 TYREX WHITEWALL TUBELESS 6.70-15 or 7.50-14
$22.35 TYREX BLACKWALL TUBELESS 6.70-15 or 7.50-14
Plus tax and your retreadable tire

Light summer driving... the Economy-Type BFG "Safety-S." If you spend your summers around home—just do a lot of short-trip driving—your best value is an economy tire like the B.F.Goodrich "Safety-S." It has a wide, ground-gripping, 7-rib tread for skid protection on slick streets and safe, quick stops in city traffic. We believe there's no better value in economy tires than the B.F.Goodrich "Safety-S."

Three Children Die

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Three sleeping children were burned to death early Monday when a fierce fire raced through their two-story frame home.

The 15 other persons who occupied the dwelling escaped without injury.

Dead are Robert Buchanan, 6, his two-year-old brother, John, and 11-month-old Barry E. Robinson. All were sleeping in the same room.

A chupatty is an Anglo-Indian word for an unleavened cake of bread.

|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 ♣ | Pass | 1 ♠ |
| Pass | 2 NT | Pass | 3 NT |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

Opening lead: Ten of ♥

South, as declarer, put up a creditable performance in today's hand but was helpless against the faultless defense of East and West.

The bidding was reasonable enough. South opened with one club and after North's response he jumped to two no trump. While the textbook requirements for such a rebid is 19 points the South hand falls only microscopically short of the mark and the call is condoned, since South holds 18 high card points and a good five card suit. The two no trump rebid is to be favored in any event to protect South's diamond holding from immediate attack.

West, deciding that declarer was well prepared for a diamond lead, elected to open the ten of hearts. South played low from the dummy intending to let the ten hold the trick. This was part of the campaign to avoid an early lead from East. Declarer of course needed time to develop the club suit.

East was doing some thinking of his own, however. Lacking a card of entry he realized that it was pointless to establish the heart suit and decided to help develop his partner's hand. He therefore put up the queen of hearts which South overtook with the ace and returned the king of clubs.

West was in with the ace and he led back his other heart which was ducked in dummy and East's nine held the trick. He shifted to the four of diamonds and declarer was forced to take the finesse. West captured the queen with his king and returned the three to clear the suit. South proceeded to run the spades, but West doggedly held on to one diamond and the guarded jack of club and declarer was obliged to submit to a one trick set in the end.

Observe that, if East fails to put up the queen of hearts at trick one, declarer can permit the ten of hearts to hold and thereby render the defense completely helpless. East can never gain the lead and declarer either has time to establish the clubs or else gain his ninth trick in the diamonds, if West decides to lead that suit.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Spike Jones telephoned to tell me that he considers Steve Reeves the new teenagers delight. "My children were so insistent I use Reeves on my show," said Spike, "that I went to Joe Levine to see what could be done. Joe told me that Steve has two pictures to make and is now starring in 'Hercules Unchained' in Rome, but if I wanted to go to Rome to film my scene with Steve, I could have him.

"So," said Spike, "if the hill will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet will go to the hill." In other words, Spike takes off for Rome in a couple of weeks to film his sequence with Steve for his Aug. 1 show.

That "hot cat" Louis Prima tells me it's true that he and Keely Smith will produce his life story, "The Cat Has 9 Lives" as a movie—but not with that title and not with Louis. He'll get a male star "prettier than me" to do the emoting, but Louis will be tootin' the trumpet on the sound track—who else could do that as vies planned by the Keelou Corp., well?

This is only one of several mo the name of the Keely-Louis independent setup. On the agenda they also have "The Egghead" and "Take My Hand."

Everyone wondered why Hal Wallis didn't keep Dolores Hart on home base instead of loaning her to Allied Artists for "The Plunderers." Hal holds her contract and Dolores was a hit in "Pleasure of His Company" on Broadway. When I talked with Wallis he said he's been waiting for something special for her—and he has it in "Summer and Smoke." The pretty Hart girl will have the second lead with Geraldine Page in this Tennessee Williams story.

Hal also told me that Michael Curtiz has a bid in for Dolores for the femme lead in "The Life of St. Francis of Assisi." If the shooting schedules don't conflict, Hal told me, "Dolores may be able to do both pictures."

Maggie Rennie returned to London Saturday after settling her suit for increased alimony against Michael Rennie out of court. She told her attorney David Licht that money was not that important to her to drag in the names of their friends. Michael then obtained an uncontested divorce without involving anyone.

Mrs. Rennie was in such a highly nervous state that, she had to be given sedatives to calm her. Both sides threatened to name names, and it's just as well the case didn't come to court. Maggie's old friends stood by her, and of course Mike had his supporters, too.

Eve Arden tells me that she goes into Mt. Sinai Hospital for one week for treatment of a pinched nerve. "Then Brooks and I open in Toronto, Canada, June 27, at a summer theater in 'Goodbye Charlie', and I want to be in perfect health," said Eve. "In addition to therapy, I'll get a good rest," she said.

Eve and her husband, Brooks West, met while doing a play together and they're looking forward to the summer stock engagement in Canada.

The busiest young man I know is Johnny Mathis. He recorded in New York last week and is doing another this week. I talked to Helen Noga, his manager, who flew here for her granddaughter's eighth birthday and returns to New York over the weekend.

She said Johnny opens at the Greek Theatre Sept. 5 and that Hermes Pan is doing the choreography. "Johnny can't wait to get back to California to enjoy the sunshine, play tennis, swim and enjoy his home here," she said. Johnny shares a beautiful home in Beverly Hills with Helen and her husband.

School Bus, Truck Collide

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) —Five children escaped injury Monday when their school bus collided with a tractor-trailer on U.S. 40 about one-half mile south of here.

The bus driver, Charles Taylor of Havre de Grace, was taken to Harford Memorial Hospital for examination of a reported back injury.

State Police said the bus was struck in the rear by a truck driven by Michael Trezza of Baltimore. Trezza was uninjured.

Market Declines First Time In Nine Sessions

NEW YORK (UPI) —Selling in blue chip industrials and many of the recently-favored defense issues drove stock prices lower for the first time in nine sessions Monday.

The market lacked a proper stimulant to keep the eight-day rally alive. The corporate news picture generally favored the bears.

Selling spread to most sections of the list following report of the American Iron & Steel Institute that steel operations this week were expected to drop to the lowest level for any normal week since mid-September, 1958.

The decline also bore out what brokers had said — that postponement of the Berlin showdown over the weekend would trigger profit-taking in some of the recently strong defense groups and cause the general list to falter.

Trading fell on the decline to 2,530,000 shares from 3,170,000 shares on Friday. A total of 1,203 issues appeared on the tape, and of these 505 declined, 36 to new lows, and 489 advanced, with 41 to new highs.

Industrials closed at 623.66 off 1.58 in their average. The decline interrupted an advance that saw the group run up more than 20 points in the last eight sessions.

B&O Pledges Cooperation On Crossings

Will Notify Police If Blocking Occurs

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming has been assured that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will make every effort to hold crossing blockages to a minimum.

The pledge was made by C. E. Bertrand, general manager of the B & O's Eastern Region, who said that where unavoidable blocking does occur in the future, the railroad will make every effort to notify the Police Department of such blocking.

Instructions have been issued, Mr. Bertrand said, "to alert our personnel of their duty in this regard."

He said R. J. Cannon, division superintendent, had called to his attention the action taken by Mr. Fleming to withdraw the four warrants against the B & O charging unlawful blocking of certain crossings in Cumberland.

"This company," he said, "is grateful for the dismissal of these charges."

Mr. Bertrand said the Baltimore and Ohio is interested in being a good neighbor and that "the fine cooperation shown by you gives us added incentive to do likewise."

The charges against the B & O were dropped a week ago after city officials met with Mr. Cannon and representatives of the men who work in the Cumberland terminal.

A number of operating rules designed to minimize blocking of the Baltimore Street crossing were agreed upon.

Included were plans for moving freights over the crossing as quickly as possible, for clearing traffic when long trains must be made up in two sections, that shifters will wait until traffic clears when pulling over the crossing after it has been blocked and for making air and inspection tests before freights cross Harrison Street.

German Exchange Youth Welcomed

Miss Minna Margarete Hold, right, 24-year-old farm social worker of Strahlshauser Eschinge-West in Germany, is being welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. James Robison and family, Mt. Savage, where she will visit three weeks before going to other farm areas of Maryland to learn the American way of life. In the background besides Mr. and Mrs. Robison is James Arnold, assistant farm agent of Allegany County, who introduced her to the family. In the foreground are James J., John, Mary Susan and Margaret Robison. When she caught a glimpse of Western Maryland's mountains and small farms, Miss Hold felt at home since terrain in her homeland is similar. Her trip here is made possible through the International Farm Youth Exchange. She will visit the Iowa corn belt and Washington, D. C. before returning home.

Three Draw Sentences In Check Case

Fourth Youthful Defendant Freed

Three of the four young persons tried yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court on fradulent check charges were found guilty by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley and sentenced to state penal institutions.

Hugh J. McMillan, 18, of Central YMCA, who was found guilty on three charges was sentenced to two years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males on each count with the stipulation the sentences run concurrently.

Sarah Catherine Riggleman, 19, of 221 Davidson Street, found guilty of forging two of three checks was sentenced to two years in Maryland State Reformatory for Women on each of the charges. The sentences are concurrent.

Tommy Lee Riggleman, 21, 133 Bedford Street, (no relation to Sarah C. Riggleman), charged with aiding and assisting in the making, forging and uttering of two of the checks, was sentenced to the Maryland House of Correction on each count with the terms to run concurrent.

Found Not Guilty

Daniel Eugene Jones, 20, of 332 North Mechanic Street, accused of aiding and assisting in the making and forging and uttering of one of the checks, was found not guilty by Judge Fraley.

The trial lasted about an hour and 20 minutes and prior to the opening of the trial the four defendants were taken from the county jail to the court room by Deputy Sheriff George Staup.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, presented the state's case on criminal information filed in court last Wednesday.

Edward J. Ryan was court-appointed counsel for McMillan and Riggleman. Miss Riggleman and Jones were represented by Fred H. Anderson, who also was court-appointed.

Pleas of guilty were entered for McMillan and Miss Riggleman and pleas of not guilty were entered for the other two accused.

Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, read a statement given by McMillan in the presence of the other three defendants after they were taken to the county jail following their arrest.

McMillan was charged on three counts involving fradulent checks cashed April 21, 23, and 25 involving a total of $578.50; Miss Riggleman with forging two checks, one for $200 on April 21 and a second for $154.80 on April 23.

Confinement Ordered

In view of McMillan's past record, Judge Fraley said he "hasn't appeared to have learned anything" insofar as the law is concerned and since forgery is such a serious offense the only thing to do is to place him in confinement.

McMillan was advised by the judge to go straight and become a useful, law abiding citizen after serving his time in the penal institution.

In sentencing Miss Riggleman, he cited her past police record and said that he is a firm believer in probation but is not in favor of continuous probation. It may do her some good to have her confined, he pointed out.

This morning Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein will take Riggleman and McMillan to the penal institutions. Miss Riggleman will be taken to the reformatory at a later date, the sheriff said.

Suit Is Filed For Property College Needs

Condemnation Action Started

Two Frostburg residents are defendants in a condemnation suit filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Maryland school officials who are seeking a tract of land for use in the expansion program at Frostburg State Teachers College.

The suit was filed by Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, the State Board of Education and Board of Trustees for State Teachers Colleges against Emerson E. Thomas and Nellie K. Thomas, both of 136 Bowery Street in Frostburg.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley has signed an order requiring the defendants to answer the petition within 15 days to show cause why the property should not be condemned.

The plaintiffs charged with acquisition of property for the college in Frostburg, find it necessary to acquire Lots 1, 2, 3, and 4 of the subdivision of the George H. Wittig property on Park Avenue near the intersection of that avenue and Midlothian Road.

The lots described in the suit are improved by two gasoline pumps and a small 20 by 25 feet one-story frame building used in connection with the gasoline station business.

The land is required for the construction of a dormitory and lies adjacent to the property occupied by the college. The petitioners are unable to reach agreement to purchase the defendant's property. They claim the defendants demand "excessive and unreasonable."

Memorial For Three Planned

Served Red Cross For Many Years

A brief memorial service for three Allegany County residents, who were active in Red Cross work and died within the past year, will be held tomorrow evening in conjunction with the annual dinner meeting of the Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross at 6:30 in the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary of the chapter, said that the three persons to be included in the brief service are Mrs. George Legge, former executive secretary of the chapter three years; Mrs. J. C. Cobey, of Frostburg, who was branch chairman in that community, and Mrs. Arthur S. Hoffa, of Barton, who was branch chairman there.

Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the chapter's memorial committee, will give a report on the Jane Legge Memorial during the meeting.

Reservations to the dinner meeting, open to volunteer workers and persons interested in Red Cross work, may be made through this afternoon at the chapter office in the Post Office. The telephone number is PA 2-1760.

Mrs. Lindsay pointed out that the two branch chairmen had been active in Red Cross work for many years and took a personal interest in home services.

C. M. Sanner, chairman of the Board of Directors, will preside at the meeting at which time various annual reports will be given. Reports of the supporting services of the chapter are included in the program being prepared for the meeting.

The guest speaker, Richard E. Tomlin, assistant director of Disaster Services for the 16 states comprising the Eastern area, will give a talk on his experiences in China.

During 1955 and 1956 he was assigned to meet all civilians and military personnel released from Red China through the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong.

Invocation and benediction will be given by Rev. Levi J. Zeigler, pastor of the Church of the Brethren in Westernport.

Jury Trial Set Today

Two related damage suits, seeking a total of $26,000, are scheduled to be heard by a jury today in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The cases, resulting from an automobile accident on the Potomac River bridge at Hancock, were filed originally in Washington County Circuit Court but were moved here on order of Associate Judge D. K. McLaughlin.

Mrs. Alma G. Dyer, through Attorney Ernest V. Wachs of Hagerstown, brought suit for $25,000 against Lionel Roy Smith. Mrs. Dyer contends that she sustained severe injuries to her body, right shoulder, both legs, head and face on or about April 19, 1959, when her automobile was struck from the rear while she was driving toward Hancock on U. S. Route 522 while still on the West Virginia portion of the bridge.

Her 18-year-old daughter, Ina Mae Dyer, by her father and next friend, John W. Dyer, and Mr. Dyer individually brought the second suit for $1,000 against Mr. Smith. The girl, who was a passenger in the car with her mother, contends that she sustained severe back injuries which cost her father a great deal in hospital and medical expenses.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley of Oakland will preside at the trial.

Local Flying Association Plans Aerial Rally June 12

An aerial rally will be held at the Cumberland Municipal Airport at Wiley Ford on Sunday afternoon, June 12 by the Cumberland Flying Association which made plans during a recent meeting at the airport.

George Nash, special activities chairman, will be in charge of the rally. He said the objective is to go over a triangular course with each pilot predicting his own performance.

The pilot will follow through accordingly with plane limitations taken into consideration. An entry fee will be required of each pilot and observer flying in the rally.

The fees will go toward the purchase of useful prizes. The course selected would require a landing on one spot and locating and flying over another distinct point.

The rally, he said, will require about an hour of flying time. The committee appointed to check planes from specified points include Edward Robeson, Eugene Light, Mrs. Helene Knippenberg, and Mrs. Bruce Dawson.

Also being planned by the association is a soaring meet the weekend on August 6. The met will be sanctioned by the Mid-Atlantic Soaring Association. Newsletters are being mailed to association members giving more details on the two activities. At the recent meeting two films were shown.

Edward Robeson was named social chairman for an outdoor weiner roast at 7:30 p. m. June 16 a highlight of the next meeting.

An informal spot landing contest will be held. Pilots will attempt to come the closest to a circle on the field when they alight in their planes.

Michael Minke, Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Robert K. Poling are committee members for the meeting. In July the members will met at the home of Quinter Fike at La Vale. A corn roast is being planned for the August meeting.

City To Check Sewage Report

A sewage complaint made yesterday by an official of St. Luke's Lutheran Church was referred by the Mayor and Council to Street Commissioner John J. Long and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum for investigation and report.

Dwellings and trailers to the east of the church, according to Wilbur D. Sills, treasurer, are dumping raw sewage and draining it to the rear of the church property.

He said the condition could be corrected by conduits running to the sewage ejector station at Bedford Road.

In a report, J. B. Dowling, Health Department sanitarian, termed the condition a health hazard.

Frank E. Gamble, director of the Allegany County Youth Wind Ensemble, asked permission for the group to present a concert at Constitution Park July 24.

Permission was granted if the concert does not conflict with activities already scheduled at the park.

Barton Banker Sings Anthem To Open Meet

A special guest of the convention yesterday was Richard Heavner, Bedford Road, a 4-H Club member who attended the session on "Current Problems in Agricultural Credit."

Principal speaker at today's session will be Charles R. Walker, assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Others on today's program include Dr. Kenneth McFarland, educational consultant, General Motors; Alan P. Hobitzell, executive director of the Maryland Development Credit Corporation, and Harry A. Boswell Jr., Department of Economic Development, Annapolis, who will outline the new state plan for economic development.

Over 700 are attending the 64th annual convention.

Thruway Ramp Will Be Opened

The Northwest ramp of Willowbrook Road interchange of the Cumberland Thruway may be opened to traffic this week.

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company last week completed surfacing of the 0.141 mile section of road and is now engaged in final work on the contract.

The local firm began work on the $99,624.40 contract early in January and worked through the winter.

Use of the stretch of road, which will serve as a ramp when the interchange is built, will eliminate a curve at Lindnerville on Route 40 here, and will be used later as an alternate bypass of Route 40 when the interchange bridge is built at Lindnerville.

The road included in the ramp begins about 150 feet east of Shade's Lane and runs about 1,060 feet up Long Hill on Route 40.
